Legion For All Out War

Include A-Bomb Use In Korea If Peace Talks With Reds Fail

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The American Legion demanded today an all-out war, including use of atomic and hydrogen bombs, to drive Communists from Korea if peace negotiations fail.

It took its stand even as Secretary of State Dulles was telling it that Red Chinese aggression against Korea or Indochina might provoke war between the West and China itself.

Dulles, given a big ovation as he walked onto the convention floor rostrum, appeared to be laying down a new government policy of warning potential aggressors where the United States intends to fight for security protection.

On record, amid applause, went on the Legion as questioning the sincerity of the Communists in the peace negotiations and adopted a resolution of the foreign relations committee demanding:

"If the peace negotiations are not successfully concluded then the full military strength and might of our government with every usable weapon at its disposal, be employed to drive the Communist forces out of Korea and to establish a unified democratic government in that unfortunate country."

Dulles told the Legion's 35th national convention that Chinese could no longer count on the "privileged sanctuary" of Manchurian air and supply bases if they renewed aggression against South Korea.

The Legion itself also approved a resolution saying "the time has come to serve notice on this treacherous enemy (Red China) that if present peace negotiations are not successfully concluded we will hold the Communist government in China strictly accountable."

The Legion, in a resolution, voiced "tremendous opposition" to admission of Red China to the United Nations or recognition of it by the United States. It called upon the U. S. to use its power of veto if necessary to stop the U. N. from sealing Red China.

Some delegates applauded when Rogers Kelley of Edinburg, Tex., chairman of the foreign relations committee, read his committee's recommendation that no U. S. treaties or pacts should be binding without Congressional approval.

But the Legion did not immediately approve it. A minority sought unsuccessfully to spell out its meaning in more detail. It finally was approved by a voice vote. Kelley said the resolution approved the principle of endorsing any specific proposal for a constitutional amendment.

Dulles noted that Communist China is training, equipping and supplying Communist rebels in Indochina and added there is risk Red China might send its own army there. He warned again of the possible provocation of war between the U. S. and Red China.

"I say this soberly in the interest of peace and in the hope of preventing another aggressor miscalculation."

Then Dulles told the Legionnaires the Korean War had taught the nation the lesson of making clear its intentions in advance where and over what it might fight. He said many informed persons felt both World War II and the Korean conflict were the result of aggressors thinking Americans wouldn't fight.

Dulles was applauded frequently. One of his largest ovations came when he said the Communists knew they can no longer count on "future sanctuary" behind the Yalu. The Legionnaires cheered, too, his remarks on the Indochina situation.

The Legion called the U. N. "ineffective as an instrument for world peace" but side-stepped a battle which had been brewing behind convention scenes over the U. N. The foreign relations committee rejected several proposals that the United States withdraw from the U. N.

Former national Commander Donald R. Wilson of Clarksville, Mo., bitterly criticized the U. N. in a convention speech Monday. Wilson did not urge withdrawal, but he told the Legionnaires they should watch the U. N. closely for fear their rights as a nation would be taken away.

The Legion called for continued support of the U. N. in spite of what it called "weakness and even impudence in its existing structure." It contended its charter needed revision but as "long as World War III has been averted x x x there is basis for hope."

42 Die In French Plane Crash; In U. S. 21 Down With Liner

Famed Violinist, Jacques Thibaud, Dies on Alp Peak

NICE, France. — An Orient-bound French airliner crashed in flames late last night on the side of a 10,000-foot Alpine peak, killing France's most famous violinist, Jacques Thibaud, and 41 other persons.

The giant four-engine Air France plane was on a regularly-scheduled flight to Saigon and Hong Kong when it smashed near the towering summit of Mt. Cemet, in southeast France 100 miles north of this Riviera resort.

Rescue workers who reached the scene after toiling more than five hours up the steep mountain slopes reported there was no survivors among the 33 passengers and 9 crew members. Wreckage was scattered over 1,500 feet of the mountain side.

Air France officials could give no cause for the crash, which occurred only an hour and a half after the big plane left Paris's Orly Field. They said messages from the pilot had reported all was well and the weather was good.

Rescue crews reported the temperature on the mountain side was below freezing but the weather otherwise was perfect.

Airline officials said the passengers included four Indochinese, one Swiss and a man believed to be a German. The rest apparently were French. Among the passengers were one baby and four other children.

With Thibaud were his daughter, Suzanne and his accompanist, Rene Herbin. They were en route to Japan for concerts.

Thibaud was the second great French violinist killed in recent years in an Air France crash. The brilliant young woman player Ginette Neveu died in 1949 when another French liner crashed into a mountain in the Azores while en route to the United States.

The crash occurred at 11:30 p.m. (5:30 p.m. EST), 20 minutes before the Constellation was scheduled to make its first stop here at Nice.

Rescue workers set out immediately from the winter sports town of Barcelonnette and other surrounding communities for the scene of the tragedy, near the French-Italian border.

The 72-year-old Thibaud, a child prodigy who gave his first concert at the age of 8, was recognized as France's leading violinist. He had toured the United States many times following his first appearance there in 1903.

WASHINGTON. — The air force announced today it has converted a B47 jet bomber into a tanker plane capable of refueling other B47 while in flight.

The six-jet B47 is the world's fastest jet bomber. Like all jet planes its fuel consumption is great, hence the desirability for aerial refueling to extend its range.

Heretofore B47s have been refueled from piston-engine KC97 aerial tankers. The jet bombers have been forced to slow almost to their lowest safe speed in order not to outrace the KC97 during refueling.

In refueling from a KC97, the tanker lowers a telescoping, flexible "flying boom" which an operator in the tanker maneuvers into an opening in the nose of the B47.

But in refueling from the new jet tanker, designated the KB47, the receiving airplane has a long, streamlined refueling probe jutting from its nose. This probe is maneuvered by the B47 receiving the fuel into a "drogue" or receptacle in the bomb bay of the tanker KB47.

Polio Kills Young Man From Jefferson City

COLUMBIA, Mo. — William George Pratt, 27, died of polio in the University of Missouri general hospital last night. A resident of nearby Jefferson City, he was brought here for treatment Saturday night.

A wife and two children survive.

Bids For Hospital At Sedalia AFB Rejected, Too High

Six bids for construction of a hospital building at the Sedalia Air Force Base were rejected by the Army Engineers Tuesday because they were too much above the government estimate of $720,865.

The lowest, $898,353, was submitted by the Stevens Construction Co. of Sedalia.

The Engineers said the project will be given further study and probably will be re-advertised.

Orientation Day At S-C Friday For New Students

Orientation Day for all new students at Smith-Cotton High School will be held Friday, sponsored by the Student Council. The program will begin at 2 p.m.

Carl Matthews, Senior Student Council president, will extend greetings to the students. School songs will be led by Virginia Sue Miller, with Judy Case as accompanist.

The official welcome will be given by Principal Forrest L. Drake, who will also introduce the Junior Student Council president, Donald Land.

Charles Brady will speak on care of the school building, followed by a discussion on safety and traffic by Korman Riley, vice president of the Senior Student Council.

Tony Walsh will explain procedures taken in cases of absence and tardiness. "Adjustment to High School" will be the subject of Shirley Kirkpatrick.

Pinkney Miller, assistant principal, will speak on the cafeteria, its use and schedule and the improvements made to it.

This will end the program and the classes will be dismissed. David Meneff will be in charge of traffic supervision and Ruth Waters will head the student teachers.

PARIS. — The United States, France, and Britain have proposed to Russia a Big Four foreign ministers' meeting at Lugano, Switzerland, Oct. 15, the French foreign office said today.

WASHINGTON. — The Allies which fought on the U. N. side in Korea will offer the Communists a choice of three possible sites for the peace conference: Geneva, San Francisco or Honolulu.

They will suggest that the conference begin Oct. 15. Under terms of the armistice agreement, it must start no later than Oct. 28, which is 99 days after the truce signing.

WASHINGTON. — President Eisenhower can quickly lay his hand on millions of dollars if he responds favorably to Iran's urgent appeal for financial aid.

He has promised "sympathetic" consideration of the request.

The money could come from the 4½ billion appropriated for foreign aid at the last session of Congress.

One provision of the law authorizes the President to use 100 million dollars, regardless of other arrangements, for anything he considers "important to the security of the United States." However, there is a ceiling of 20 million on the amount that may be spent in any one country under this provision.

Military Chartered Plane Wreckage Seen In Washington

McCHORD AIR FORCE BASE, Wash., D. C. — The Air Force reported today the burned wreckage of a chartered airliner that vanished last night with 19 soldiers and two crew members had been found in Southwest Washington.

The first reports indicated there were no survivors.

The McChord information office said 15 bodies were counted at the scene.

An officer said a state forestry employee had found the wreckage and counted the bodies.

The crash area was described as east of Centralia, about 40 miles south of the plane's McChord Air Force Base destination.

A logging party found the wreckage while on a search for it.

Both the Army and Air Force reported today 19 soldiers were passengers on the flight from a field near Ft. Ord, Calif. Earlier reports had ranged as high as 22.

The crash scene was north of Toledo, Wash., where the plane was supposed to have landed in but did not. The last report from it had been over Portland, Ore.

SEATTLE. — Late and wrapped in a blanket of clouds that lay like a shroud over its course, a military chartered plane with 21 or 22 soldiers and two civilians aboard vanished somewhere in the Pacific Northwest last night.

The twin-engine Regina Airlines craft left Monterey, Calif., at 1:40 p.m. and last was heard from over Portland, Ore., 5 hours and 48 minutes later.

It then was eight minutes overdue at McChord Air Force Base, Tacoma, with its load of soldiers from Ft. Ord, Calif., but the pilot made no mention of being in trouble.

Its next scheduled report point was at Toledo, Wash., 65 miles north of Portland and about halfway to McChord, but no radio contact ever was made there.

Regina Airlines officials in Seattle said the plane would have exhausted its fuel supply by 8:20 p.m. This, and the possibility it had encountered difficulty en route to Portland, led to the belief the plane probably came down somewhere between Portland and Toledo.

The area is rough, wooded and laced with rivers. Only a short distance to the east of the flight course rise the ragged lofty peaks of the Cascade Mountains, graveyard of many a plane.

Search plans immediately were made by Washington, Oregon and McChord officials but a steadily dropping cloud layer and prediction of possible rain minimized hope of any aerial search before late today.

The ceiling was 4,500 feet over Portland when the plane reported but it declined to 1,500 feet over McChord at that time. A few hours later the cloud layer had dropped to 500 feet, eliminating all possibility of a night air search.

The public information officer at Ft. Ord replacement center said the soldiers were headed for probable overseas shipment after reaching the air base.

WASHINGTON. — President Eisenhower can quickly lay his hand on millions of dollars if he responds favorably to Iran's urgent appeal for financial aid.

He has promised "sympathetic" consideration of the request.

Consider U.S. Aid To Iran

President Promises 'Sympathetic' Look At Nation's Request For Financial Help

FRASER, Colo. — President Eisenhower has assured the new government of Iran "sympathetic" American consideration of its urgent appeal for financial aid.

In another move obviously designed to win Iran to the Western world and away from any alignment with the Soviet Union, the President last night made public a message to Premier Zadeh of Iran promising immediate study of that nation's economic crisis.

Eisenhower, in a message dated Aug. 26 in reply to Zadeh's of the same day, told the Premier: "In an effort to assist you in dealing with your immediate problems, I have authorized my ambassador to Iran to consult with you regarding the development of our aid programs there."

"I recognize that your needs are pressing. Your request will receive our sympathetic consideration and I can assure you that we stand ready to assist you in achieving the aspirations of your country which you have outlined."

Eisenhower's message, made public at his vacation headquarters here, mentioned no specific amount of financial assistance this country might provide. Zadeh mentioned no figure, either, but did say the aid Iran now is receiving from the United States is inadequate to tide his nation over its financial crisis.

The Premier added: "The treasury is empty; foreign exchange resources are exhausted; the national economy is deteriorated. Iran needs immediate financial aid to enable it to emerge from a state of economic and financial chaos."

Iranian newspapers speculated the new U.S. aid might amount to 100 million dollars. In Washington, reports put the figure at about 30 million.

The Eisenhower letter to Zadeh was the President's second message to Iranian officials since the Aug. 19 royalist overthrow of the government of deposed Premier Mossadegh.

Last week Eisenhower made public a message congratulating Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi on his return to power. The Shah had said on Aug. 23 that his government was broke, needed aid immediately, and was willing to accept aid from any country—including Russia.

Eisenhower's pledge of sympathetic consideration to Zadeh was disclosed a few hours after the President decided to extend his vacation here by 24 hours.

He had intended to return to the summer White House in Denver last night, but put off departure until this evening after landing in the prolonged heat spell.

Chicago, where there has been no measurable rain for 21 days, each 24-hour period produced a new record for the last week.

Other Midwest cities, among them Milwaukee and Detroit, had new high readings.

Scattered sections of the parched country received small, periodic rainfall. But the precipitation usually followed by a dense cover of humidity.

Some rain fell early today and Tuesday in Texas and Florida, and in widely separated portions of the upper Great Lakes.

But no general relief from the tropical oppressiveness was sighted by the Chicago Weather Bureau.

Southwestern Missouri was reported suffering from drought for the state the summer has been the hottest and driest since the record-breaking year of 1936. Pastures were reported virtually "non-existent" in Missouri.

L. C. Carpenter, Missouri agriculture commissioner, said the big losers from the drought would be the livestock raisers. He said rain must come in quantity by mid-September if any fall pasture of small grains can be planted.

Damage to crops in several states appeared soaring into the millions of dollars. In Missouri alone, officials estimated the farm income loss from drought would total 150 million dollars.

In Iowa, one of the leading corn states, a Farm Bureau official said the hot weather of the last week along with the state's prospect of low corn yield by at least 15 percent. Corn damage also was reported in Illinois, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Indiana and Ohio.

No general relief from the hot and sticky weather was predicted for the bulk of the area enveloped in the hot air mass.

Some cool air moved into northern parts of Minnesota. It was expected to move slowly across northern sections of Wisconsin, Michigan and Iowa by tomorrow.

But hot and humid weather was predicted for today and tomorrow for areas south and east of the slowly advancing cooler air mass.

And in Washington, the Weather Bureau forecast hot and dry weather was the outlook for the northeast part of the country during September.

Temperature records toppled again yesterday in nearly every section of the swelter-belt. It was the same in many cities yesterday as it has been for more than a week—readings in the high 90s and in some cities above 100.

The hot weather has lowered insect in some areas but no general slackening was reported.

Farmers were worried about the lack of rainfall as they surveyed brown pastures and lean livestock.

In cities, millions were inconvenienced by lack of water as they sought the cause of the accident.

Indian Meal Moth In Wheat Bins Can Be Kept Controlled

By MERLE VAUGHAN
Pettis County Agent

Apparently the Indian meal moth infestation of farm stored wheat covers a large area where wheat is being stored this year. Several reports of damage have already been made in Pettis County.

Use activated pyrethrum sprays (sprays containing either pyrethrin and pyrethrin, or pyrethrin and pyrethrin, or pyrethrin and pyrethrin). In bins, such as metal ones where there is a tight air space above the grain, fog this up with the spray.

The easiest way is to use an aerosol. For the ordinary sized steel bin, use about ½ of an ordinary size (about 12 ounce) aerosol each time the air space is fogged.

You can also get the job done a little cheaper by mixing the spray concentrate with water at the rate of about one part concentrate and six parts of water, and spraying the air space. Use an atomizer-type sprayer. You want the droplet size to be as small as possible. Spray the air space—not the grain itself.

This will kill only the adult moths that are in the bin—it will not clean out the worms in the grain. Consequently, you should repeat the spray about once a week for the next four to six weeks.

In the open-topped wooden bins, this method will not work too well. We have had much better results by actually spraying the surface of the grain with the pyrethrum spray. Mix one pint of the pyrethrin or sulfoxide spray concentrate with one gallon of ordinary grain fumigant. (Use a mixed fumigant—not carbon disulphide, or high life, alone.) Spray this mixture over the surface of the grain at the rate of two quarts per 100 square feet, using a compressed air garden type sprayer.

This will not thoroughly fumigate the grain, but it will leave a heavy residue of pyrethrum spray on the surface of the grain. So far, bins we treated in this manner have been kept clean. We can't tell yet how long that will continue, but we hope it will be effective for a considerable time.

Of course, this same treatment can be used in tight bins instead of the space spray.

If a person wants to fumigate a bin, figure out how many square feet of grain surface are in the bin, and mix the spray concentrate with the needed amount of fumigant so that approximately one half pint of spray concentrate is applied per 100 square feet of grain.

After the spray has been applied, don't stir up the surface of the grain. You want the pyrethrum deposit to remain on the top of the bin.

Heat Wave Credited With the Deaths of 58

No Sign of Relief As Eastern Half Of US Broils Under Relentless Sun

By The Associated Press

The eastern half of the nation broiled today under a relentless sun with no sign of general relief.

The heat wave, nearly two weeks old in some sections east of the continental divide, has taken a heavy toll.

At least 58 deaths attributed directly to the heat.

Thousands of other persons suffered from temporary heat prostration.

A serious water shortage in many sections because of the lack of rain.

Millions of dollars lost in wasted crops and livestock sold earlier than normal to beat drought conditions.

A serious blow to already eroded farm income.

In New York City the heat produced a sharp alarming rise over normal summertime deaths. During the 24 hours ending at 9 a. m. Tuesday, there were 414 deaths, the department of health reports.

The daily average when temperatures were normal was 85. The above average total was definitely attributed to the heat.

New heat records piled up in most states almost from the start of the prolonged heat spell.

Chicago, where there has been no measurable rain for 21 days, each 24-hour period produced a new record for the last week.

Famous General Is Dead

Jonathan Wainwright, Hero of Corregidor, Dies In Hospital At San Antonio, Tex.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, World War II hero of Corregidor, died at 12:27 p. m. (CST) today in Brooke Army Hospital here.

The famed soldier, known affectionately as "Skinny," had been hospitalized since July 6. He suffered a first cerebral thrombosis, what is commonly known as a stroke, Aug. 13. His condition had steadily worsened since yesterday morning, when the hospital reported he had suffered a second stroke.

Wainwright won the Congressional Medal of Honor for his superb defense of Corregidor, a Philippine island fortress, in World War II. His holdout has been credited with upsetting the Japanese army's timetable in the Pacific struggle.

After he was liberated from years in Japanese prisons, Wainwright was named commanding general of the Fourth Army with headquarters at Fort Sam Houston here. He retired as an insurance firm executive and engaged in various other business enterprises until he was hospitalized.

Death came to the famed old soldier just eight days after his 70th birthday.

A constant companion during his fatal illness was his son, Jonathan M. Wainwright of Norfolk, Va., a captain in the naval reserve.

Defeat gave Wainwright his finest triumph. His troops bought the time needed to marshal the forces that eventually beat the Japanese in World War II.

Water Usage Hit Record Here During the Fair

Tuesday, Sept. 1, the intense heat, with temperatures hovering at a maximum near the 100-mark, Sedalia's water consumption stepped up to a remarkable degree. City dwellers and those at the fair used 2,933,466 gallons which was exceptionally above normal usage.

This, however, was not a record for one day as L. H. Reed, head of the Sedalia Water Company, informs the Democrat that on Wednesday, August 25, some 3,193,262 gallons went through the mains.

That is without doubt the largest amount ever supplied in one day by the company. On Thursday, it was but a little short of the record.

St. Louis users, under 100-degree heat, consumed 257,900,000 gallons Tuesday, the second highest total in that city's history.

The Missouri Water Company, serving Independence, requested consumers Tuesday to conserve water by discontinuing use of garden hoses and sprinklers. Consumption there last Saturday was 7,086,000 gallons.

Numerous cities throughout the midwest and east have called for cutting down consumption. While no such call has been issued from the water company in Sedalia, it behooves everyone, due to the drought condition and not knowing how long it may continue, to not waste water needlessly, using only such amounts as are necessary for actual needs.

Bridges Calls For New Concept Of U. S. Security

WASHINGTON. — Sen. Bridges (R-NH) called today for adoption of a revised concept of American military security, based primarily on Russia's claimed possession of the hydrogen bomb.

Bridges, who heads the Senate Appropriations Committee and is a member of the Armed Services Committee, said in an interview that present military policies should be re-examined thoroughly to determine if they are outmoded by developments.

"The most ominous threat to this country's security now is a possible atomic attack on some of our principal cities," the New Hampshire senator said. "In the light of Russia's possession of the hydrogen bomb and the strides the Soviets are making with atomic weapons, we've got to re-examine our whole military concept of defense."

Bridges said he hopes the new Joint Chiefs of Staff, headed by Adm. William E. Radford, will put steam behind the construction of interceptors, fighters and guided missiles to guard American cities. The Joint Chiefs have promised a full review of all U. S. military policies.

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — French police reported today that 25 million francs ($71,400) in French and foreign currencies was stolen from the Riviera home of retired American movie producer Jack Warner during an all-night party.

3,027 Yanks Get Freedom From Commies

PANMUNJOM, P. — Another 100 happy Americans rolled through Freedom Gate today, bringing to 3,027 the number of U. S. soldiers freed by the Communists as the Korean War prisoner exchange neared an end.

These other developments highlighted the 29th day of Operation Big Switch:

1. A returning officer said 75 Americans who "confessed" to germ warfare charges under relentless Red pressure would be repatriated soon. He said the men, mostly officers, were at Kaesong, the Communist holding point north of Panmunjom, and all expect to be repatriated.

2. The sixth troopship carrying liberated Americans sailed for the United States from Inchon on Korea's west coast. With 440 men aboard, the transport Gen. Black is due in San Francisco about Sept. 15.

3. An American corporal, said to be marked for death by other returning prisoners because he betrayed them to the Reds, was reported to have disappeared from a Tokyo Army hospital. The soldier, identified only as "Slick," was freed three weeks ago and had been sent as a medical case to the hospital.

4. The U. N. Command, in an unusual announcement, accused the Communists of rigging interviews between Allied POWs and visiting Red Cross teams. The announcement quoted a returned Australian officer as saying the Reds told him that he would not be repatriated unless he gave "proper answers" to Red Cross workers.

Smiling and apparently in good health, 41 officers and 59 sergeants made up the 100 Americans returned Wednesday. The Reds held up delivery of the Americans until after 150 South Koreans were returned.

In all, the Communists turned back 100 Americans and 200 South Koreans Wednesday and promised to deliver Thursday 89 Americans, 200 Koreans, 5 British and 6 Canadians.

Including Wednesday's delivery, 11,716 Allied prisoners have been freed. Before the exchange started, the Reds said they held 12,782 POWs, but have since indicated they would return more than that number. They said these would include an undisclosed number of men captured in the last days of the war.

According to the original Red figure, 286 Americans are yet to be returned, but this number probably will be exceeded.

One of the Americans returned Wednesday learned for the first time that he had won the nation's highest award—the Medal of Honor—for bravery the night he was captured two years ago.

He was Lt. James L. Stone of Hot Springs, Ark., who sat with tears in his eyes as he was told of the award by Brig. Gen. Ralph Osborne, 8th Army officer in charge of repatriation.

His voice choked with emotion, Stone told the general, "I don't know what to say. I don't think I deserve that. I don't think I should have it."

Lt. William H. Whiteside of Seattle brought back the report that 75 Americans who "confessed" to germ warfare were awaiting repatriation at Kaesong.

Whiteside said the 75 made broadcasts and signed statements that they dropped germs on North Korea. The U. N. Command repeatedly has denied the charges.

He said another 153 officers also were at Kaesong waiting to be sent back.

Sgt. I. C. Harry W. Rolison of Bayboro, N. C., said 14 Americans held on trumped up charges "were called into a special hearing at Kaesong two days ago and told that their sentences had been commuted and that they would be repatriated."

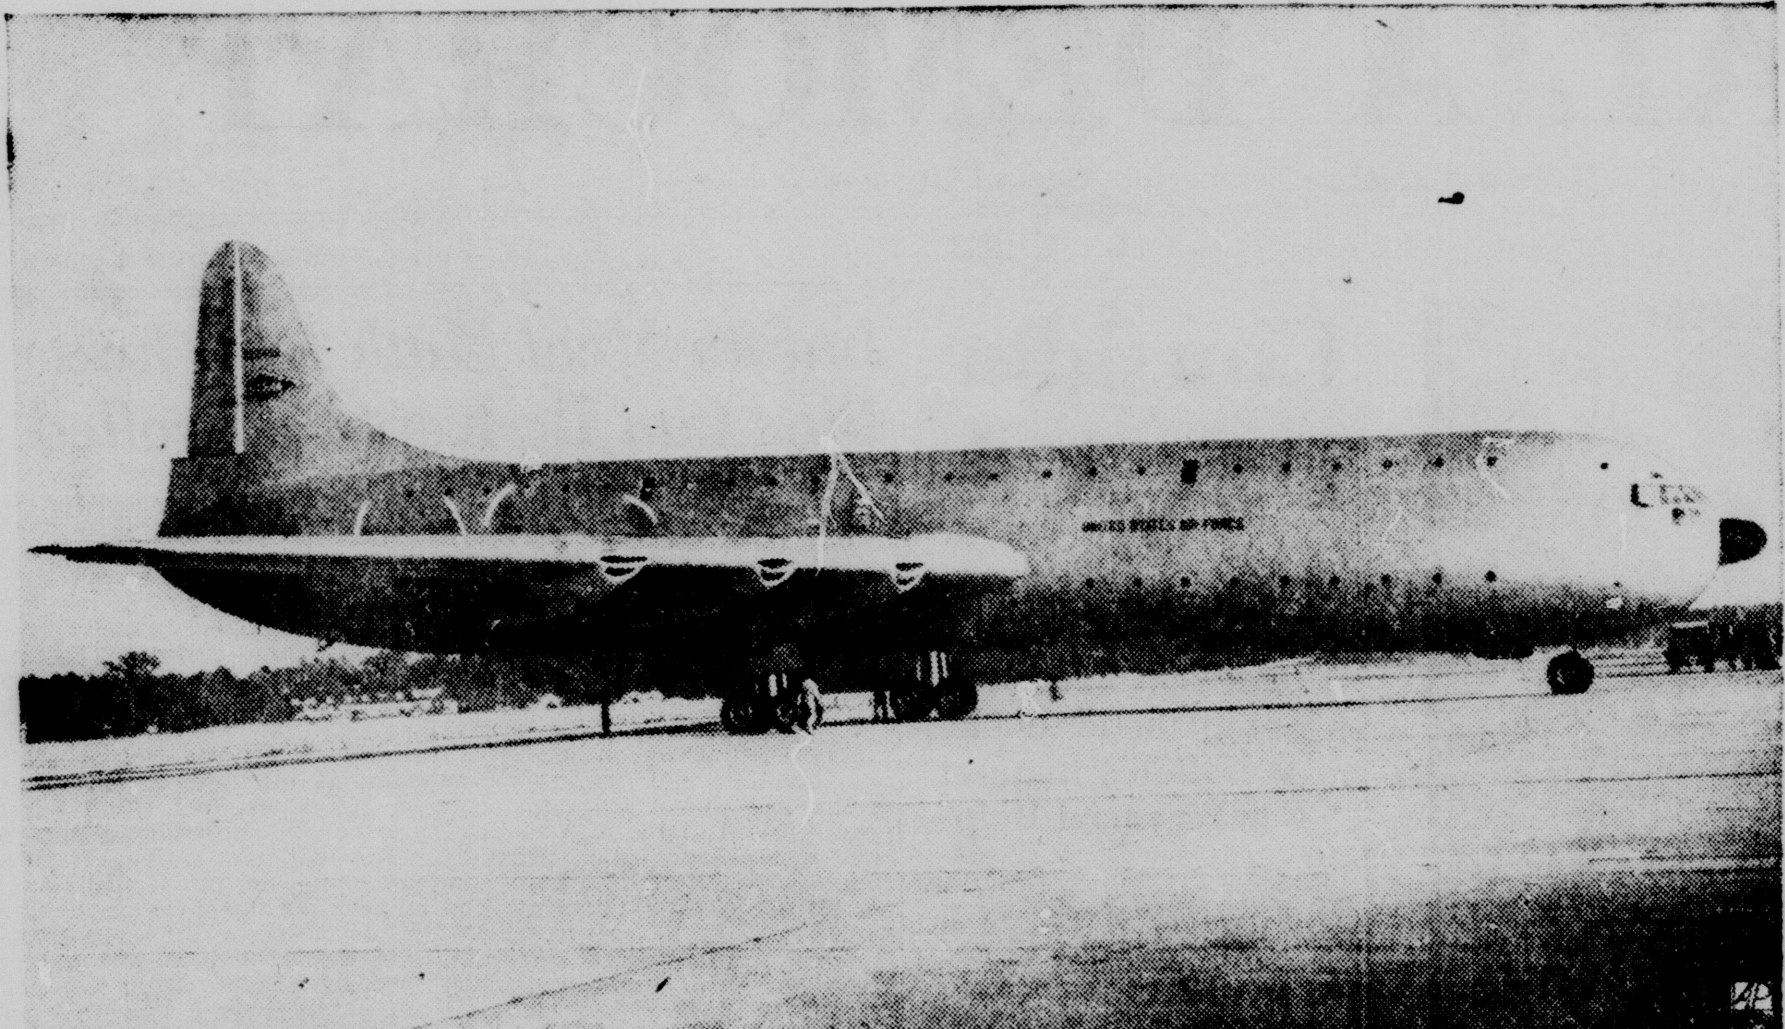

"You can imagine how they felt," Rolison said. He said they probably would be repatriated in a day or two.

Army authorities said "Slick" had been absent without leave for five days and military police had been ordered to arrest him.

"Slick" originally had been scheduled to leave for the United States troopship from Inchon after his repatriation, but he reportedly was warned that other prisoners had vowed vengeance.

He asked to see an Army chaplain. The chaplain called in medical officers and "Slick" was sent to the Tokyo hospital.

Bob Thomas in Hollywood— Guy Madison, Unable to Get Job Once, Now Is Very Busy

HOLLYWOOD, P. — For a guy who couldn't get an acting job for three years ago, Guy Madison is doing all right.

In fact, he's up to his pistol holsters in work, and he doesn't seem him for two years said "Slick" sold out to the Communists for better treatment by informing on fellow POWs.

The U. N. Command statement accusing the Reds of "rigging" interviews was issued by the Allied Military Armistice Commission and possibly will serve as the basis for an official protest to Communist member of the commission.

"Communist methods of rigging interviews between U. N. prisoners and Red Cross teams visiting their detention camps came to light today," the statement said. "In the avowal of a returned Australian flier that he had been forewarned to tell of our side's 'air raids' on Camp 2 where he was imprisoned."

"Flight Officer Ronald D. Guthrie of Sydney said at Camp Britannia (the processing center for returned commonwealth POWs) that during the more than two years of his captivity 'I never saw an air raid.'"

The statement said a Chinese interpreter gave Guthrie a list of questions likely to be put to him by the Red Cross teams.

"At the same time he was given the 'proper' answers—proper if he still wanted to leave the camp on schedule," it added.

low. When I saw him on the "Rear Guard" set, he was reciting his lines to himself. It was a hefty hunk of dialogue, and he wanted to have it well memorized. That's part of the discipline that TV has taught him.

He admits that he moved "too far too fast" during the early phase of his film career. A bobby sox favorite, he was pushed into leading roles that were beyond his capabilities. After a few flops, he found himself out in the cold.

That's when he gambled his future by heading out West with Adny Devine.

He now has as much work as he can handle. Warners is grooming him as the likely successor to John Wayne and Randolph Scott and is lining up a number of action vehicles for him. He also plans to shape up his own picture-making company.

He has a respite from his TV chores until next March. He'll resume the Westerns then, filming them in color so they'll be ready for United TV. His fall schedule includes recording 40 radio shows for the Wild Bill series.

Everything seems to have turned out fine for Guy, except his own personal life. While his success should have brought him happiness he is actually a quiet and unhappy fellow. The failure of his marriage to Gail Russell is one of Hollywood's tragedies.

Truck Is Dynamited In Labor Flare-Up

ELIZABETH, La. (P)—State police reported a paper mill worker's truck was dynamited last night in the latest flareup of violence in an 11-month-old strike at Elizabeth.

The pickup truck, owned by Paul Snell, was parked near Pitkin and unoccupied at the time of the blast, state police said.

The Calcasieu Paper Co., and the jointly owned Southern Industries, Inc., have been struck since last September in a contract dispute.

NATO Chief Wants US To Give Some Data About A-Weapons

PARIS (P)—French Marshal Alphonse Juin, NATO's commander-in-chief in central Europe, wants the United States to give its European allies information on its new atomic weapons.

Speaking to correspondents at SHAPE (Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe), Juin said yesterday:

"What the military people want to know is the effect of the shell of the new weapon, and if it can be kept at their disposition." He declared the United States need not disclose any bomb manufacturing secrets.

The marshal—France's top soldier—indicated, however, that he got some sort of fill-in on most atomic developments.

"Personally, not much is hidden from me," he said. "But there is still a little feeling of constraint, even so."

Hurricane Is Week Away From US Coast

MIAMI, Fla. (P)—Hurricane Carol third tropical storm of the season, churned distant Atlantic waters today 2,400 miles east southeast of Miami and at least a week's travel time from the United States mainland.

An Air Force hurricane hunter plane was scheduled to fly out from its Bermuda base today to obtain more definite information about its location and intensity.

Matched Coat-of-Arms

In 1832, the King of England granted to Lord Baltimore a charter to found a colony in Maryland. Settlers in the colony found an oriole that was black and yellow in plumage. These being the colors of Lord Baltimore's coat-of-arms, the settlers gave it the name of Baltimore oriole.

Angus Breeders Give Cattle to Raise Fund For a Field Director

The American Aberdeen-Angus breeders in Missouri are donating cattle for a sale to be held at Booneville Monday, Sept. 21. Each breeder is giving cattle to create a fund with which to employ a field service director to help all Angus breeders in the state with their problems.

More than 150 head of cattle have been donated, and it is expected by sale date 200 head will have been donated.

Not all of these cattle will be purebred, but all the purebreds will be tested and sold as purebreds.

Evangelist Orders Bibles Released For Iron Curtain

CINCINNATI — Evangelist Billy James Hargis said he has sent a message to Nuremberg, Germany, ordering the release of 10,000 bibles into Iron Curtain countries.

Rev. Hargis said yesterday he sent the message after he was shown an Associated Press dispatch in which State Department officials said no "clearance" was needed to float bibles into the countries on hydrogen-filled balloons.

Hargis, a Joplin, Mo., minister who heads a project to send to Iron Curtain nations bibles printed in various foreign languages, said the material is stored in Nuremberg awaiting sendoff.

He said earlier in an interview that a tangle with the State Department had held up the project. The evangelist was in Cincinnati on a visit.

No Cases of Food Poisoning Are Due To Fair Concessions

The Bureau of Food and Drugs, Missouri Division of Health, representatives announced today that not one case of food poisoning or illness, reported during the nine days of the State Fair, could be traced to a concession operating on the fairgrounds. A few cases of upset stomachs and minor complaints were reported from people who brought their own picnic lunches.

Representatives of the Bureau of Food and Drugs feel that this fine record is due to the excellent cooperation received from the concessionaires, their employees and the State Fair officials.

A total of 104 establishments were inspected at least twice daily during the nine days by a team of six sanitarians, making a total of over 900 inspections. In addition, the Bureau of Laboratories mobile unit was on the grounds, taking samples and running tests on meat, milk, water, soft drinks and ice cream and making swab tests of eating and drinking utensils.

Secret Army Films' Guard May Be a Red

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) says a civilian guardian of secret Army films has testified he is undecided whether communism is good or bad.

The guard, a witness yesterday before McCarthy's Senate investigations subcommittee, denied he was a Communist but admitted signing an election petition for a Red candidate, McCarthy said.

McCarthy is conducting closed hearings here into possible Communist infiltration of the armed forces. The sessions continue today.

At yesterday's hearings 10 witnesses were questioned. McCarthy later gave newsmen some details of the witnesses by name.

The senator said the guard in New York and had access to the highly classified film which he was supposed to guard against unauthorized persons.

McCarthy did not say whether any film had been stolen or tampered with.

A woman witness, according to McCarthy, was described by a male witness as high enough in the Communist party to give orders to a national committeeman and earn the nickname of "Mrs. Commissar."

The senator quoted "Mrs. Commissar" as admitting she worked for the Army in the 1920s. He said she refused to say whether she was a party member, invoking the constitutional immunity from possible self-incrimination.

"Mrs. Commissar" was described by the witness, McCarthy said, as the party boss of a woman Army employee who yesterday reportedly admitted to McCarthy that she once carried a Communist party card.

The male witness giving the information was said to have been a former employer of the woman Army worker.

In Washington yesterday the Army said it had no authority to turn over personnel files to the McCarthy subcommittee.

A trio of Army officers had testified at yesterday's hearing and were asked for personnel files and the names of individuals who gave loyalty clearances to certain civilian employees of the Army. The officers replied that they needed permission from their superiors and the secretary of defense before supplying the data.

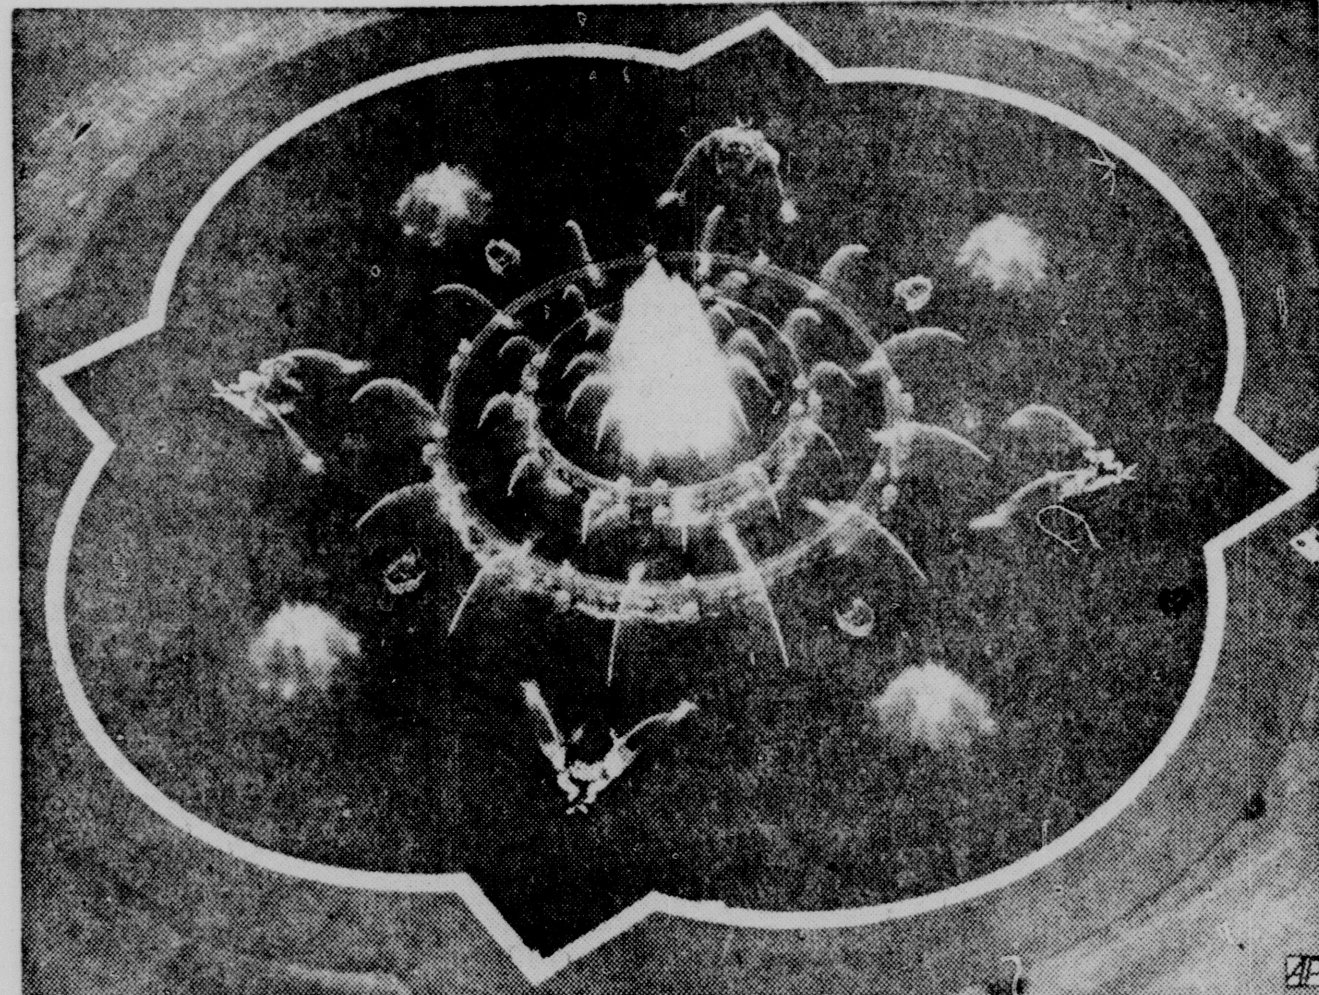

Ratio of Nurses Goes Up, But Increase Has Slowed Since '30

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Public Health Service said today the ratio of active graduate nurses to population in the United States has increased in every decade from 1910 through 1950, but that the rate of increase slowed after 1930.

There were 55 nurses for each 100,000 people in 1910 and this ratio increased to 249 in 1950.

With 374,584 active graduate nurses reported in 1950, the service said 1 out of every 400 people in the nation is working as a nurse. The service made public an 88-page book covering 50 years of growth in professional and practical nursing, saying it is the first comprehensive publication of its kind.

Government Studies Disease of Nerves That Killed Gehrig

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government is undertaking a major study of the degenerative nerve disease which took the life of baseball star Lou Gehrig.

The study will be made on Guam where the fatal ailment, known as amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, is believed to be highly prevalent.

The Public Health Service, announcing the study yesterday, said its cause is unknown and there is no known treatment. It isn't even certain, the service added, how many people suffer from it, although most estimates are that 1,500 to 2,500 cases occur in this country yearly.

L. A. Council May Bar Red Paper's Reporters

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Reporters for the Communist newspaper Daily People's World may be permanently banned from the Los Angeles City Council press gallery.

The paper's Don Wheelin was ordered out yesterday after Councilman Harold Harby charged that the publication "libeled me and my son with outright lies."

Harby said the paper reported he campaigned for reorganization of the Civil Service Commission because his son had flunked civil service examination. Harby said his son's grades ranged from 88 to 94—considerably above failing marks.

After the Council voted unanimously to oust Wheelin, Councilman Don Allen asked that a resolution be drafted barring People's World representatives from the press gallery.

Costs Small Fortune To Tell Fortunes

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (AP)—It costs a small fortune to tell fortunes here.

It was Rosie Reed's turn to cross a palm with silver yesterday when she applied for a county license. It cost her $1,000. The city also charges $1,000, and the state demands $200.

Protestant Group Takes Up Issue On School Busses

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis chapter of Protestants and Other Americans for Separation of Church and State has taken issue with recent Catholic protests on a ruling by state Atty. Gen. John M. Dalton that public school buses could not be used to transport pupils to parochial schools.

The Rev. J. Edwin Hewlett, pastor of the Southwest Baptist Church and president of the St. Louis chapter, said the Catholics are not seeking equality but inequality.

Archbishop Joseph E. Ritter and the Archdiocesan Council of Men and Women have both criticized the ruling. The archbishop called for a change in the Constitution, necessary, to correct what he criticized as an injustice resulting from the opinion.

Rev. Hewlett, in his statement, said that while parents have every right to send their children to parochial or private schools, they do not have a right to expect the public to help them finance such an undertaking.

To admit as much in the field of transportation, he said, would be to open the door to free lunches and free textbooks for parochial schools paid by public funds.

Bridges Sees Balanced Budget During Next Fiscal Year—If

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said today he expects the national budget to be balanced in the fiscal year which begins next July 1.

"If there are no new complications in the international situation of a major consequence, there is a reasonable chance to balance the budget," said Bridges, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

He told reporters Eisenhower administration officials already are at work on the new budget and "they are really going to cut down." He said major reductions must come in defense and foreign aid spending.

Death Car Was Gift On Recent Birthday

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The automobile in which six youths were fatally injured at a St. Louis County railroad crossing Monday was given to one of the victims as a present on his 16th birthday last week.

The owner was William L. Combs but a coroner's jury yesterday reported it was unable to determine who was driving the car when it sped past flashing red warning lights into the path of a Missouri Pacific freight train.

Mrs. Henry C. Combs, grandmother of William, said she was certain he was not at the wheel. "He was too careful and too proud of his car," she said. "His dad would have trusted him anywhere."

Only one of the occupants of the 1949 Ford survived the crash and he remained in a critical condition.

Enlistments In Army Up Since Truce

WASHINGTON (AP)—Army enlistments in the month since the Korean truce was signed have jumped 75 per cent above the average of the 12 months prior to the truce.

An Army official who disclosed the enlistment figures said it was too early to tell whether the increase will continue. He said he couldn't comment on the reasons for the increase.

The figures showed that 11,600 men enlisted between July 27—the date of the Korean truce—and Aug. 27. During the previous 12 months, the average enlistment was about 6,600.

During the month prior to the Korean truce, about 9,000 men enlisted—2,600 fewer than in the month following the truce.

The Army official said the length of most of the enlistments since the truce was three years, the same length of enlistment before the truce.

Whether the increase in enlistments will have any effect on draft calls is an open question. Defense Department officials have indicated, however, that enlistments will not affect draft quotas.

The Army has been the sole service taking draftees for over a year. Draft calls recently have been running about 23,000 a month.

Marine enlistments have been running about normal since the Korean truce. He added, however, that the corps has been operating under an enlistment limitation. The quota for August was 6,000.

Both the Air Force and the Navy also have been operating under an enlistment limitation. Both have had long lists of men ready to sign up.

The Air Force quota has been around 3,500 a month since May. It has built up a large backlog of men waiting to enlist. It plans, however, to increase its quota gradually to about 10,000 a month by the end of the year.

The Navy has been operating on a monthly quota of about 4,000 and has built up a 30,000 waiting list. Some men have been waiting as long as a year to enlist, with the average wait about six months.

Sues For $15,000 In Witcher Death

A $15,000 damage suit for what is claimed (in petition filed) the wrongful death in the shooting Sept. 2, 1952, of Robert S. Witcher of Holden by the Holden city marshal, A. L. Eberhardt, was filed in circuit court at Warrensburg Monday.

The watchman was a former Sedalia and at the time of his death was in the taxi business at Holden.

The suit was filed by the City of Holden, at the relation and to the use of Kenneth Robert Ditton, next friend of Joyce Ditton, against R. E. Bozarth, public administrator, personal representative of A. L. Eberhardt and the Fidelity and Casualty Company of New York City, N. Y., a corporation.

The plaintiff, Mrs. Ditton, a minor, is the only child of Witcher. Her husband is acting as next friend in the suit. Bozarth is administrator for the estate of Eberhardt, who died several weeks ago, and the Fidelity and Casualty Company was the bonding corporation for Eberhardt, when Eberhardt was city marshal at Holden.

Eberhardt shot and fatally wounded Witcher as he was attempting to arrest him in late afternoon on the main street of Holden. Eberhardt was tried twice in Circuit Court at Warrensburg on a second-degree murder charge, but both trials resulted in deadlocked juries and the charge was finally dismissed.

The petition charges that Witcher was killed "carelessly, recklessly, wrongfully and without cause or provocation."

Says Rhee Offered ROK Army Command To Gen. Van Fleet

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—An official of the American-Korean Foundation says Gen. James A. Van Fleet turned down an offer from President Syngman Rhee to head South Korea's armed forces.

Palmer Bevis, executive director of the foundation, told a news conference yesterday Rhee personally made the offer to Van Fleet in Seoul a few days ago.

Van Fleet went to Korea for the foundation. Bevis was in the Van Fleet party.

A South Korean government spokesman recently denied the offer had been made to the retired

U. S. 8th Army general. Bevis said Van Fleet told Rhee that as an American citizen he could not command another nation's armed forces.

Sen. Ferguson Says Demos Ride With Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.) accused Democratic leaders today of spreading "bunk" and "trying to ride the President's coattails" toward Democratic capture of Congress next year.

Ferguson, newly elected chairman of the Republican Policy Committee in the Senate, said some Democrats are using "false and misleading information in saying their votes 'saved' President Eisenhower's program."

His statement was obviously in reply to one issued over the weekend by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.), the Senate minority leader. Johnson said most of the President's program which passed at the last session did so because of Democratic support.

Ferguson called no names in his blast at Democratic party leaders, whose statements he termed "just bunk." He declared that "Republicans in the 83rd Congress gave overwhelming support to the Eisenhower administration."

He issued through his office here his analysis of Senate voting in this year's session. Ferguson, who is up for re-election next year, is on a speaking tour in Michigan and planned to use some of the material in the statement at a speech today in Gaylord.

"The Democrats are using this voting issue as a Trojan Horse, just to win an election, and the facts aren't on their side," he said. "They are just trying to ride the President's coattails."

Johnson had declared that most of the opposition Eisenhower encountered this year came from GOP ranks, and he said, "Many of his programs could not even have been brought to the floor of either house without Democratic help."

Ferguson, on the other hand,

Will Remove All Signs On Right-of-Ways

Notices have gone out to the various State Highway Commission division offices aimed at halting an increase in the placing of signs or other encroachments upon state highways right-of-ways. Temporary signs and posters are to be removed without notice, while in the case of more permanent encroachments, the owners will be given an opportunity to remove them before maintenance forces do it.

It has been a long standing policy of the Commission to prohibit all forms of advertising and commercial enterprises upon or overhanging state highway right-of-ways. Thus, this new action is not one of recent adoption. Authority to follow such a policy is given the Commission by state law.

Instructions issued recently to all division engineers merely reiterated previous orders. The instructions point out that all temporary signs or posters may be removed without notice. For more permanent encroachments, however, an initial notice is mailed to the owner, notifying him of the commission of the policy prohibiting it, and allowing a reasonable time for its removal.

If removal is not made, a second notice will be sent giving a specific date on which the encroachment must be removed. After that date removal will be made by state forces or the matter referred to the Commission's legal department for appropriate action.

Commission officials are urging all persons or firms erecting signs or other installations adjacent to the right-of-ways to make certain in advance exactly where the right of way line is, and thus avoid any need to remove them later. This information may be obtained from the division office of the division in which a particular county is located.

Ask Volunteers For Cancer Aid In Pettis County

Mrs. Ike L. Warren, chairman of the Pettis County unit organization of the American Cancer Society, Missouri Division, in planning the program of education and service, is asking for volunteer workers on those two committees.

The education program is a year-around program to present to the public the facts about cancer in a fight to decrease the disease with knowledge of how to detect it. The committee will have films available and speakers for any organization wanting them. For such a program, which is offered free, one may contact Mrs. Warren at the Chamber of Commerce office.

A loan closet is for people ill with cancer who need bandages, powder, soap, bedpans, and other things including, perhaps, a wheel chair. The loan closet will be handled by Mrs. George Fichter. It may also be obtained by contacting Mrs. Warren.

Volunteer workers in the Cancer South at the Missouri State Fair wear from various women's organizations. Those who work in through the week were: Mrs. Robert L. England and Mrs. Elva Lee Parks, Epistol Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi; Mrs. Anna Bagby, Mrs. Thelma Cook, Mrs. Ivan Berry, Miss Anna Sawford and Miss Hazel Barnett, Business and Professional Women's Club; Mrs. Leslie Whitte and Mrs. Frances Swenson, American Business Women; Mrs. George Dabner and Mrs. J. Saunders, Missouri Pacific Women; Mrs. Hubert Smith and Mrs. Rose Hausam, Council of Church Women; Mrs. Frank Sellers, Mrs. Frank Depp, Mrs. Glenn Nelson, Mrs. Rene Crispin and Mrs. Robert McCurdy, Delta Phi Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi; Mrs. Bert Goldman and daughter, Marilyn Goldman, Beth El Sisterhood; Miss Grace Farley and Mrs. Bill Padgett, Beta Tau Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi; and Mrs. Noah Phillips.

O. Wilson, state director of education of the O'Coner Society, and Mrs. Warren were also in the booth during the week. Mrs. Leonard Peabody served as secretary.

Car Splinters White Way Pole On W. Broadway

T. Sgt. Robert Reed Stone, 26 Sedalia Air Force Base, fined $75 by Judge R. L. Weinrich in police court Wednesday morning on a charge of driving a car while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Stone pleaded not guilty. His companion, S. Sgt. Oscar Barton, SAFB, was fined $10 for being intoxicated.

The two Air Force men were riding in a 1952 Ford sedan, headed east on Broadway, when the car struck a whitewash light post between Grand and Prospect. The car struck with such force that when it skidded around after hitting the pole, it twisted the pole about a quarter of a way around. The large light fixture was knocked loose and braces on the fixture were bent.

In police court both men denied driving the car. The right front fender was driven back, the bumper twisted, the hood damaged, the right windshield glass shattered and the front bent from the crash. The light pole was split, the light fixture damaged, all of which must be replaced.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Mary Anna Kahrs
Mrs. Mary Anna Kahrs, 96, widow of the late Lon Kahrs, died at 12:15 a. m. Wednesday at her home, 1609 East Sixth.

Mrs. Kahrs was born at Pleasant Plain, Ill., Sept. 17, 1857, and came to Missouri at the age of seven, traveling by boat, freight train and wagon. She was the daughter of Mathias and Anna Wittlinger, who resided at Fifth and Grand. She came to Sedalia from Smithton where, when a child of eight years, at the time of the "spite" railroad wreck there, her mother fixed a soothing concoction from boiled potatoes that was used to treat the scaled engineer and fireman.

When a young lady she was a guest in the home of Col. A. D. Jaynes when President Rutherford B. Hayes, Mrs. Hayes and General Sherman visited there, together with the son of President Hayes.

She had resided in Sedalia from the time all the streets were of dirt and mud to the present improved conditions.

Surviving are two daughters, Cora, of the home, and Mrs. Bessie Killian, Manitou Springs, Colo. who had been at her bedside in recent months.

The body was taken to the McLaughlin Funeral Chapel to await completion of funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Julia Florence Hamby
Mrs. Julia Florence Hamby, 1803 South Montgomery, widow of the late William Pearl Hamby, died at the Bethel Hospital at 7 a. m. Wednesday following a three week illness.

She was born April 19, 1888 in Dent County, and was married July 3, 1900 in St. Louis. They resided in Madison, Ill., and the family moved here in 1905 and lived here except for a ten year period at which time they resided in Oklahoma and other parts of Missouri. Seven sons and one daughter were born to this union. One son died in infancy and one son, Andrew, died in 1941. Mr. Hamby died in 1945. She was a member of the First Methodist Church.

Surviving are: five sons, Jess of the home, Charles, 1002 West 11th, Adolph, Eldorado, Ark., George, Jacksonville, Ark., and Elmer, Phoenix, Ariz.; one daughter, Mrs. J. H. (Mary) Calvin, Kansas City; one sister, Mrs. Gertie Cusick, Vinita, Okla.; one brother, Cleve Allen, Big Fork, Mont.; and 17 grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete, pending word from relatives.

The body is at the McLaughlin Funeral Chapel.

Mrs. Lydia A. Martin
Mrs. Lydia A. Martin, 75, widow of the late Thomas B. Martin, died unexpectedly Monday morning.

She was a daughter of the late Benton and Caroline Murray and was born June 2, 1878, and married Thomas B. Martin June 2, 1899. Most of her life was spent in the Glensted Methodist Church, was a member and active worker in the Glensted Methodist Church. Her husband preceded her in death Feb. 1, 1946, also her parents and two brothers, Miles, of Windsor, and Pink of Wood and Mrs. Jill Hays.

Surviving are: a brother, Harvey Murray, Hudson, Colo.; four sisters, Mrs. William Wood, Brighton, Colo., Mrs. Ida Thoss, of the home, Mrs. Norman Bridges, Sedalia, and Mrs. Jennie Ball, Versailles and several nieces and nephews.

Elbert N. Warnick
Elbert Newton Warnick, Warrensburg's oldest businessman, both in age and experience, died Tuesday at the Warrensburg Medical Center after undergoing surgery six weeks before. He was just 24 days short of his 74th birthday.

He was a member of the Warrensburg Presbyterian Church. Funeral services will be at 2:30 p. m. Thursday at the Warrensburg Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Warnick entered the hardware business as a clerk in a store which he bought with a partner, Ben T. Sayers, in 1891. In 1900 he opened his own store, which he has operated continuously in the same location.

He married Emma Joe Whitaker, member of a pioneer family, in 1891. She died just two years after they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

Surviving are: sons and a daughter, Raymond N. Warnick and Mrs. J. C. Bruce of Warrensburg, and Robert E. Warnick, Oklahoma City.

Sam Gotheridge
Sam Gotheridge, 82, Rock Island, Ill., died Monday at a Rock Island, Ill., hospital. He resided at 300 15th Ave., Rock Island.

Mr. Gotheridge was born in Illinois in 1871.

He was married to Miss Nellie Hammer April 1, 1917, later moving to Missouri.

He was the father of eight children: five girls and two boys, one of which died in infancy.

He is survived by: Mrs. Florence Gehlken, Sedalia; Mrs. Helen Harrington, Washington, Ill.; Miss Gladys Faye Gotheridge, of the home; Mrs. Mary Ann Glatin, Moline, Ill.; Mrs. Irene Elliswood, Rock Island; Mrs. Aurn Gotheridge and Henry K. Gotheridge, Rock Island; and 14 grandchildren.

Golden Clark Services
Funeral services for Golden Clark, 24, son of Mrs. Doretta Ison, 409 East Fifth, who lost his life in a motorcycle crash in Kansas City Tuesday, will be held at the East Sedalia Baptist Church at 2:30 p. m. Thursday. The Rev. Walter P. Arnold, pastor, will officiate.

Burial will be in Crown Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Clark was born at Latham, Oct. 4, 1928. He lived in Sedalia practically all of his life, attending the Washington School and graduating from Smith-Cotton High School with the class of '47.

He was employed at the Fox Theatre for several years before going to Kansas City, where he was employed by the Waldman Garment Co.

He is survived by his mother and step-father, Mr. and Mrs.

Fires In The City

The fire companies answered a call at 1510 South Vermont at 8:42 p. m. Tuesday when a transformer on a telephone pole shorted out, causing a fire. Damage to the transformer was slight.

Grass and weeds in the Missouri Pacific yards, west of the city, Tuesday caused a run by the fire companies. Some ties and old posts caught fire from the burning weeds. No damage resulted.

Police Court

Homer Boyer, route 3, forfeited a $50 bond for running a stop sign. Eight overtime parkers failed to appear in police court and their cash bonds of $1 each were ordered forfeited.

Floyd Gildum, McGirk, and Lloyd Keller, Jefferson City, arrested at the Milner Hotel on charges of fighting and disturbing the peace, were both fined $50 by Judge Weinrich in police court. They were arrested early Wednesday morning.

Police were called to 202 South Prospect where it was believed something was on the roof. Police, investigating, found the guy wire on a television aerial rather loose and squeaking as the breeze caused it to sway. The call was at 1:15 a. m.

A disturbance in the 1100 block on West Third caused a call by the police at 2:40 a. m. Wednesday. Everything was quiet when officers arrived.

Circuit Court

A $15,900 damage suit was filed Monday by Elzie E. Schrader against Warren L. Fiedler for alleged injuries and car damage received in an automobile collision Aug. 31 at Park and Main at about 7:45 a. m. Mr. Schrader is asking $15,000 for personal injuries and $900 for damage to his car. His attorney is John C. McCloskey.

Alfred Thomas filed suit Monday against Walter Eugene Russell for $12,500 damages. The petition states that on July 19 Russell assaulted Thomas with a bottle or blunt instrument. Thomas asks $7,500 for personal injuries and $5,000 punitive damages. He is represented by Crawford and Harlan.

Jack Austin has filed suit against Jack E. Morris, his partner at the Jokey Club, 2209 South Limit, in a petition to dissolve the partnership. He asks that the property be placed with a receiver and that the value of the property be divided equally between Morris and the plaintiff. Attorneys for the plaintiff are Fred F. Wesner and William F. Brown.

A landlord's complaint for possession of real estate, filed Aug. 24 in Magistrate Court, was transferred Monday to Circuit Court because apparently the title to the real estate is involved. The petition was filed by Irah Mahoworth, executrix for the estate of the late Arthur O'Farrell, against Nora Lemons and Ruth Lemons. Attorney for the plaintiff is Leo J. Harner.

Optimists Are Told of Boys' Need for Love and Attention

"No matter what man develops, there is nothing that can take the place of the love and affection and the interest of a human being with boys," said John Murrow, Kansas City, speaker at the Optimist Club Tuesday noon at Bothwell Hotel.

Mr. Murrow, who is in boys work, pointed out that the Optimists' job is teaching American citizenship to all boys—boys in all walks of life—through giving of themselves, through giving attention to those boys whose fathers cannot find time.

The 20th century has created problems for young people, the speaker said, and he went on to point out that where pioneer people had hardships and danger in bringing about democracy, where they had to walk to a stream to get water and they had to make their own entertainment, today they press a button for entertainment, they turn a tap for water, and he said that the boys of today are the sons of the 20th century.

Even a boy who is a "loner" is told the group, "five and six years old, insist on constant entertainment and, if they have none, I have to take them to the corner for an ice cream cone. That isn't my fault," he said. "That is the civilization of today—everybody expects that."

Mr. Murrow is in YMCA work and he stated that 60 per cent of the boys brought before him have both parents working, one usually in the daytime, the other at night. They could live on the salary the father makes, he said, but they want a car, a larger television screen, more entertainment, but they are losing the best things in life and they are failing their children because there is nothing they can buy that means as much to the children as they themselves could mean.

It doesn't matter, the speaker said, what type of a family the boys come from, if they are deprived of normal family life they are lost.

One of the hardest things he ever did, Mr. Murrow said, was to go see a boy 19 years old who was about to die in a gas chamber. The boy told him this: "If I had an opportunity to have had a dad, a mother, a Sunday school teacher, anybody who had any faith in me, I wouldn't have been here."

Then he told the story of a youngster who kept getting in trouble and Mr. Murrow was asked to see if he could form a Junior Optimist Club in that neighborhood. He went there with a ball and bat and in the block were 14 of the dirtiest, roughest, toughest kids he had ever seen. He was glad he had a ball bat for protection, because they were vicious when he drove up.

He stood with the ball bat in one hand, the new ball in the other, tossing the ball into the air. They got his attention. They had a ragged old ball, and the new one caught their eyes. Then he asked if there was any place where they might play ball. There was and they had a game.

He was almost mobbed a couple of times by his decisions, but he gained their confidence. Later he organized the Junior Optimist Club in the fifth street neighborhood. He had been in the room as he sat on a bed and the odor of the boys, who probably hadn't had a bath for a month, was almost more than he could take. But he organized that club. A few months later the Optimist Club and the boys, with the money they could make from selling paper and the junk they collected, managed to get enough to send the whole group to a boys' camp. The payoff for Mr. Murrow was when he received a letter from the man in charge of the camp asking where in the world he found that group of boys. Seven, he said, are the best leaders that have ever been to the camp.

The home situation today in too many cases lacks understanding. There are too many material things considered and the greatest need is neglected. "Give to the child what God has intended—yourself, your love and affection and respect—all the money you give them cannot make up for family relations," Mr. Murrow said.

The Optimist Club, he said, is not an idle thing, it is real. One boy, if he thinks you believe in him, if you give him the right kind of relationship, is worth everything you give.

Harold Barrick, president, presided over the meeting and invocation was by the Rev. Robert C. Reinhardt, C.P.P.S.

Singing was led by Charles Hanna with Miss Lillian Fox at the piano. D. A. Blankenship of Kansas City was introduced as a guest.

Public Schools Open In Tipton District R-VI

Tipton's public schools opened Monday morning, Aug. 31, with a full staff of teachers and an enrollment of 326 in the elementary schools and 194 in high school. There are 63 enrolled in the Fortuna elementary school, and Miss Holloway has 24 second grade pupils in the Baptist Church annex. There are 68 freshmen enrolled and 65 first graders.

A new bus has been ordered and will be on the job Tuesday after Labor Day. There will be no school Labor Day this year. There has been considerable remodeling done at the Fortuna school building.

Following is a list of the board of the newly reorganized Tipton School District R-VI, and a list of teachers and other employed personnel for the term 1953-54.

Members of the board of education are: L. W. Billingsley, president, N. T. Newkirk, vice-president, Toby Lademann, L. A. Stahl, Raymond Madigan, and Jim Briscoe.

Ira Grubb is superintendent of schools. Principals are C. M. White, high school; Mrs. Alma Evans, Tipton Elementary; W. N. Riddle, Syracuse Elementary; Miss Wanda Schroeder, Fortuna Elementary; and Galveston Shipley, Harrison Elementary.

High school teachers are Mrs. Jerry Hudson, Roscoe Gibson, Harlan Stretz, Mrs. Helen Pettigrew, C. W. Thomas, Mrs. Faye Leatherman and Frank Leatherman.

Teachers at Tipton Elementary School are Mrs. Gladys Miller, Miss Mae Steiner, Mrs. Nadine Hofstetter and Miss Vivian Holloway.

At Syracuse Elementary School will be Mrs. Evalena Anthony, Mrs. Merle Repper and Miss Dora Eichholz.

Mrs. Mary Bentch and Mrs. Isabelle Baughman will teach at Fortuna Elementary School.

L. E. Morris will have charge of veterans agriculture, with Miss Mary Lee Kempf as his secretary.

Miss Ruth Norman will be secretary to Supt. Grubb.

Custodians will be H. H. Hudson, Tipton, J. N. Conley, Syracuse, and Edgar Drake, Fortuna.

Claude Nichols will direct the service in Tipton, with six drivers: Gene Wilson, Joe Geiser, Walter Geiser, Thornton Huff, Vest Hirst, and M. A. Thomas.

George Peoples is owner of the buses at Syracuse, with Harry Fowler as a driver.

Mrs. Emil Rowles drives Negro pupils to Sedalia and Harrison, and Dimple Chism transports them to Harrison.

Mrs. Harry Fowler and Mrs. George Peoples are cooks for the lunch program at Syracuse.

Missouri Farmer Protests Voting On Wheat Quotas

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Missouri farmer has protested to Secretary of Agriculture Benson a regulation which he said denied him the right to vote in the Aug. 14, 1953, wheat quota referendum.

Rudolph Lawrence of Dexter, Mo., wrote he was one of many wheat farmers denied a vote on the quota program "solely because we were not allotted 15 acres or more of wheat."

Under the quota program, House Agriculture Committee officials said, a farmer who has planted 15 acres or less in wheat, may plant up to that amount without being subject to marketing quotas.

Lawrence said the regulation seemed unfair to him as "a wheat farmer is a wheat farmer no matter what acreage he cultivates."

"Anything that affects wheat affects my small acreage also," he added. "I cannot understand how a ruling such as that above mentioned one could ever have been passed by you."

He expressed concern about the danger which he said "regulations such as these will bring on."

"It would not be fantastic to imagine that in the future the farmer would be under complete government control."

His letter was turned over to Lloyd Whitehouse of the Production Marketing Administration who has the job of answering letters in connection with the wheat referendum.

Nationally, farmers approved the wheat price support system for 1954 by a percentage of 87.2 of those voting.

In Missouri, the percentage was 77.4, a total of 14,052 farmers voting.

Red POWs Attack Two US Soldiers After Being Freed

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Communist prisoners on their way back to North Korea today attacked two U. S. soldiers and showered missiles on Allied Red Cross teams and a member of the Neutral Nations Commission.

Herbert Nuttall, British member of the joint Red Cross team at the prisoner exchange site, was a target for some of the missiles, said the attacks on the two soldiers were "entirely unprovoked."

A United Nations Command spokesman said more serious incidents were expected as "especially vindictive" Communists are exchanged during the final days of operation big switch.

Gets Life Sentence For Trying to Buy Murder of His Wife
BUTLER, Pa. (AP)—Ernest E. Storch, convicted two weeks ago of paying two Pittsburgh Negroes $25,000 as a down payment on $100,000 for the murder of his wife, was sentenced today to life in Western Pennsylvania Penitentiary.

Hal Boyle's Column-- Many Americans Turn Hobbies Into Profitable Businesses

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—There is more than one way to keep the wolf from your door.

Thousands of American families today are beating inflation by extra income earned by sideline pursuits.

Other thousands would like to do this also, but don't know how. Yet almost everyone can find a way to earn sparetime cash, if he but looks around him.

One of the best ways is to capitalize on your special interests or hobbies.

A former newspaper friend of mine, Ted O'Leary, editor of "The Profitable Hobbies Magazine," published in Kansas City, has collected hundreds of examples of how hobbies can be turned into a source of profit as well as relaxation.

One of the oddest is the case of Albert F. Marsh of Mobile, Ala. Some years ago Marsh received a single male hamster in payment of a $1 debt.

He bought two female hamsters and then began breeding and selling the little animals. Within 14 months he quit his job with the state Highway Department to devote all his time to the hamsters. Within three years Marsh was grossing $4,000 a week, selling hamsters as pets and to hospitals and laboratories for experimental purposes.

Being a housewife is no handicap in the search for gold mines in hobbies. Mrs. Myrtle Helm of Minneapolis began painting plaster figurines with friends in 1946 for fun. She wasn't satisfied with the paints.

With the aid of a chemist Mrs. Helm devised a quick-drying, hard finish paint that removed the need of firing the figurines. She began selling the paint and other supplies. Her husband resigned his post of a full-time job to help her. Soon their annual sales rose above $110,000.

Or take Mrs. Helen Simon of Kingston, Wash., who searched for a way to augment her farm income and found the answer in her own kitchen.

Mrs. Simon tasted some wild huckleberry jelly made by a relative. It was delicious. The idea came to her. "Why not try to market home-made jellies with wild fruit flavors?" She did. In five years her sales jumped from $3,000 to almost $25,000 annually.

Such financial returns from hobbies as those in these three cases are, of course, unusual. But almost anyone with a little ingenuity can turn a ready dollar—as editor O'Leary's other case histories show.

Rudy Lecompte, a Baytown, Tex., oil chemist, bought an outfit for duck hunting and found he had no money left for decoys. He saw some buoyant driftwood and wondered if good decoys might be carved from this wood, which was plentiful. He began doing so, now sells the decoys for $18 a dozen to other hunters.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Cox of Orlando, Fla., specialize in making reproductions of faded photographs in old family albums. They get their orders in house-to-house soliciting, sometimes earn $100 in a day.

Janet and E. John Royle went to Arizona to be cattle ranchers on a place near Tucson. Then they got the idea of making novelty jewelry—pins, bracelets, earrings and necklaces—from cactus, or "jumping cactus." They now have a country-wide market and virtually have forgotten cattle raising.

Age is no barrier. Mrs. George McCollum of Batavia, Ill., loved as a girl to make doll dresses. Now 81, she estimates that in the last 20 years she has made and sold about 100,000 doll garments to stores and individuals in all parts of the nation.

Each year she gives many doll outfits to orphanages, and her work has won praise from such people as Henry Ford, Helen Hayes, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

Here is Mrs. McCollum's philosophy: "If you get up in the morning knowing that someone is counting on you to accomplish something that day, then there is a real purpose and joy in living."

LUMPY JAW

Lumpy Jaw or Actinomycosis is a chronic infectious disease seen most frequently in young cattle. It is caused by a fungus organism which gains entrance to the body through injuries or abrasions of the lining of the mouth or throat.

This disease generally develops slowly. The fungus localizes in the soft tissues and finally invades the bone, most frequently the lower jaw bone. The infected bone enlarges to form a lump that is honey-combed and filled with pus. The surrounding tissue becomes inflamed and swollen and teeth may be lost. The infection spreads slowly and the lesion may discharge yellow granular pus which is highly infectious for man.

Little can be done to prevent lumpy jaw. Infected animals should not be permitted to remain in the same pasture or feed lot with healthy cattle.

Early cases can be successfully treated with certain antibiotics by injecting it into the center of the abscess. The best that can be hoped for in advanced cases is to retard further rapid development.

Freed POW Learns He Won Highest Medal

FREEDOM VILLAGE, Korea. — An American lieutenant returned from a Communist prison camp today to learn he had won the Medal of Honor in his last battle.

"I don't know what to say," stammered Lt. James L. Stone of Pine Bluff and Hot Springs, Ark., as tears welled in his eyes. "I don't think I deserve that. I don't think I should have had it."

Stone learned that he had won America's highest military decoration from Brig. Gen. Ralph Osborne, who is directing the prisoner exchange program. There had been no previous announcement of the award for fear of Communist reprisals.

Stone was captured Nov. 23, 1951, while a platoon leader with the 8th Regiment of the 1st Cavalry Division. He and 49 men were captured by attacking Reds. Stone said he knows of only five others who survived the battle.

In Pine Bluff, Stone's father—S. L. Stone—said his son was the first American soldier to cross the 38th Parallel on the Central Front. Of the medal, Stone said simply, "I'm proud of him."

The young lieutenant was wounded in the chest just before his capture, but he appeared tanned and fit today.

Newsman had to draw from him the story of his last fight.

He said the men of his platoon threw off five consecutive Chinese attacks.

"We drove them out of there five times," he said. "After the fifth Chinese assault only seven Americans were left to fight. The rest were dead or seriously wounded."

The Chinese were holding one section of the hill and Stone's platoon held another.

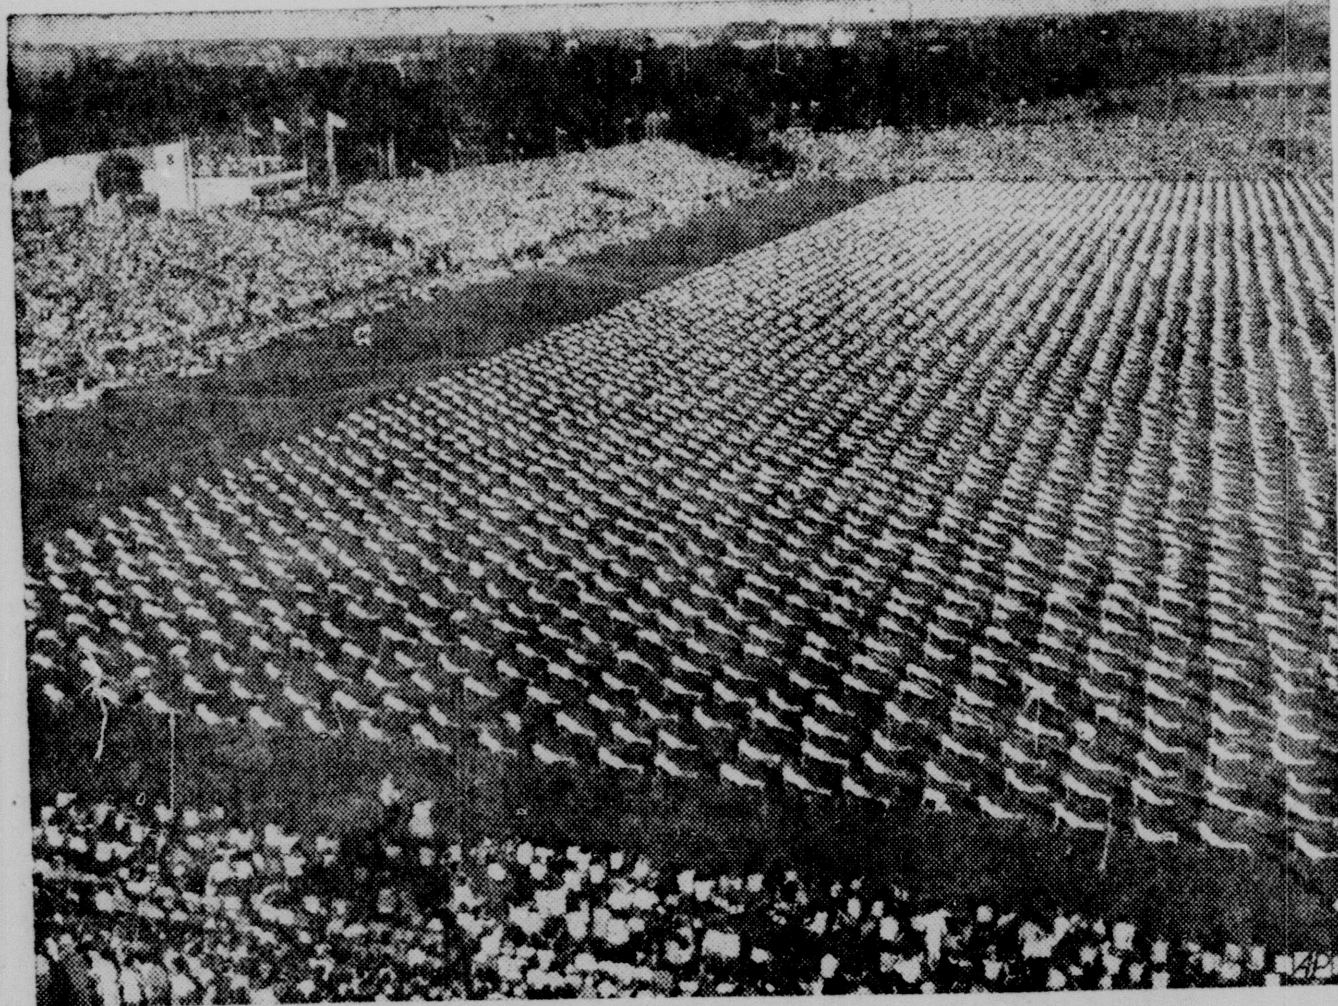

"It was pretty obvious it was just a matter of minutes and we were going down," he said.

He called the seven men together. "They had no intention of giving up," he said. "No man mentioned running. Every man stayed and fought it out."

Asked how he got wounded, Stone replied "I was out there firing away at the enemy and I got hit."

Stone gave all credit to his men. He singled out Floyd L. Stone as the real hero. He did not know Floyd's home town. A Pfc. Floyd L. Stone of Calvin, N. D., was repatriated Aug. 7.

The lieutenant said Floyd Stone

Reporter Has Trouble With Wife Over Lunch With Kinsey

By ED CREACH

WASHINGTON. — "You are having WHAT with WHOM today?" my wife demanded, with just a touch of shrillness in her voice.

"Lunch," I said. "With Dr. Kinsey, Alfred C. Kinsey, that is. The one who wrote the—"

"I know what he wrote!" my wife said. "And why, may I ask, are you having lunch with Dr. Kinsey?"

"Oh, scientific curiosity," I said. "Plus the fact," I said, "that the boss told me to have lunch with him."

"Hmmm. Well, now, I wonder personally took on the enemy" and killed three Chinese in close quarter fighting.

Lt. Stone was the second liberator prisoner to learn he had won the medal. Last month Sgt. Hiroshi H. Miyamura of Gallup, N. M., a shy Japanese-American, was unable to believe he had been awarded the coveted decoration.

what in the world you will find to talk about."

"Oh, we won't be alone," I said. "The girls will be there."

"The girls?" "Uh-huh. He's speaking at the Women's National Press Club."

"This," said my wife, "gets more and more interesting. I never before realized that you were a member of the Women's National Press Club. Does Dr. Kinsey know about it?"

"Look," I said, "the ladies are inviting some male guests, see? And I'm one of them, see? As a working reporter, is everything clear now?"

"I'll bet you complained to high heaven about that assignment," my wife said. "I'll bet you threatened to resign."

"A reporter," I intoned, "goes where the news is."

"And," said my wife, a trifle acidly, "where the women are. To say nothing of Dr. Kinsey. Tell me, what will the good doctor do? Read selected passages from his book?"

"Oh," I said, "I expect he'll give a dry little talk on statistics or something. Then there'll be questions—"

"Questions? You mean he's going to interview those women right there in front of everybody?"

"If I know the members of the Women's National Press Club," I said, "Dr. Kinsey won't be able to get a question in edgewise. They do the asking, those girls."

"Hmmm. Will you get to ask a question?"

"If I can get the floor, which I doubt. Why? Is there something you want me to find out from Dr. Kinsey?"

"There is," said my wife firmly. "It's about all those women he's already interviewed. Ask him if he has ever read that old poem about women, the one that goes:

"O dreamy eyes,
They tell sweet lies of paradise;
And in those eyes the love-light
And lies—and lies—and lies!"

Police Are Baffled
By Weird Critter—
A Friendly Kinkajou

LOS ANGELES. — The craziest critter hopped into a police patrol car yesterday.

The baffled officers said it had a face like a raccoon, ears like a dog, claws like a bear, tail like a monkey and was just as friendly as a park squirrel. They took it to headquarters where it gobbled candy bars like a small boy and chewed gum like a stenographer.

Attendants at the city animal shelter thought it was a coati-mundi. But it turned out to be a kinkajou from Central America. Owner Robert de Szabo took him home and gave him a banana.

Now everybody knows who Kinky is.

Movies Will Honor Great In Own Hall Of Fame In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD. — The movie industry is taking the first steps to honor its great in a hall of fame to be erected at a cost of more than two million dollars.

President Jean Herscholt of the Motion Picture Relief Fund announced yesterday that the project envisions a museum offering "the only complete collection of industry properties and relics of our trade," as well as niches of honor for outstanding actors and industry leaders.

Herscholt said that the MPRF's Executive Committee and Board of Trustees have completed a financial study and appointed a committee to select possible sites for the museum, whose profits will go to the relief fund.

In announcing this today, the Labor Department said the figure represents an increase of 96,000 over the previous year. More than 150,000 of the job placements were for Korean veterans.

The department said the increase in veterans' job placements was primarily due to favorable job opportunities, the expanding rate at which Korean veterans were discharged and special job finding services offered by local public employment offices.

West German Candidates Run for Votes

BONN, Germany. — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and 4,039 other West German candidates roared full steam into the political home stretch today as the government readied top secret plans against Red terror attacks on next Sunday's crucial elections.

Both Adenauer and his chief opponent, Socialist Erich Ollenhauer, headed their campaigns for the key Ruhr industrial section. Its vote could decide whether the West-allied Chancellor's three-party government coalition beats back the strong threat of the isolationist Socialists to control Parliament's new lower house.

The huge field of candidates is campaigning for 484 legislative seats. The others must decide whether the majority will be filled by persons pledged to Adenauer's program to rearm Germany in alliance with the West or to the Socialist platform of going it alone between East and West.

Resigned to the certain voting defeat their relatively few cohorts in West Germany face, the Kremlin's East German satellites have poured thousands of Red agents across the winding 600-mile East-West frontier.

After nabbing some 4,500 of the Red agents, Adenauer's government said they were pledged to a terror campaign of political killings and attacks on voting booths.

The government's tough border police already were fully mobilized against the invasion, but officials said thousands were believed to have slipped through.

At least three nabbed agents told police they had been ordered to kill West German political leaders. Others said they were told to storm voting booths, destroy ballot boxes and frighten voters away from the polls.

The government kept secret its plans to combat those who had slipped through the border defenses.

Russians Want Talks To Relieve Traffic Rules Between Zones

BERLIN. — The Russians say the rival East and West German governments should get together on the question of easing travel restrictions between the two zones of divided Germany.

This was the substance of a note sent by Soviet high commissioner Vladimir Semenov to his British, French and American counterparts. It was made public last night by the Soviet-licensed news agency ADN.

Semenov's message replied to proposals from the three Western Allies suggesting an end to the interzonal pass system set up soon after World War II for persons desiring to cross the border.

It followed a line stressed by the Russians in recent weeks—that all such questions, including preparations for elections to unify the two zones, are matters for the two German governments to decide.

The West has countered that the East German Communist regime is a puppet outfit whose unpopularity with its people was demonstrated by the June 17 uprisings.

HAGERSTOWN PUTS LID ON UNLICENSED DOGS

HAGERSTOWN, Md. — Washington County constables have been ordered by the Board of County Commissioners to stop selling dog licenses.

From now on they're to arrest any dog owners whose dogs don't have tags.

The commissioners said something had to be done about some 2,000 dogs running around the county.

Navy Will Release 1,982 Reservists

WASHINGTON. — The Navy yesterday notified 1,982 reserve officers they'll be released from active duty in January because of current manpower and budget restrictions.

The other services have also announced forthcoming release of reserve officers—the Army about 8,000, the Marine Corps about 500 and the Air Force 10,500.

Six Youngsters Admit About 40 Burglaries

DENVER. — Six youngsters being questioned by police couldn't recall all the burglaries they had committed.

"How do you expect us to remember?" one of them asked Detective Lester Jones. "We pulled some of those jobs when we were just little kids."

The youngest of the six is 9 years old. The oldest is 13.

Jones said the boys pulled at least 40 different jobs in the past three years. He estimated their loot at about $400 in cash and merchandise.

1856. THE MANSE. Birthplace of WOODROW WILSON

AP Newsfeatures

In Staunton, Virginia, is an old house, erected in 1845, as the Manse of the First Presbyterian Church, of which Woodrow Wilson's father was pastor. The Manse is a large, square building of gray-painted brick and is of Greek revival architecture. The portico, which was originally the main entrance, now somewhat altered, faces the beautiful garden in the rear. This garden has been restored and landscaped to conform with its old pattern, by the Garden Club of Virginia. The property was purchased in 1931 by Mary Baldwin College and later sold to the Commonwealth of Virginia. The Manse, with its garden, is now open to visitors, as a shrine to Wilson.

It's good to be missed

Now that Schlitz is again available everywhere, orders are pouring in at an unheard of rate. No such flood of orders has ever been seen in the history of this or any other brewery.

Absence has made the heart grow fonder. Based on the orders on hand for Schlitz, the most popular beer in history is destined to become even more popular than ever.

The power behind these orders is the pent-up demand of the American people for the brand they know and like best—a beer so fine it made a city famous.

This is the public's response to Schlitz quality after ten long weeks of absence. It's good to know you've been missed.

The reason is that Schlitz has given more satisfaction to more people than any other beer in the world.

Needless to say, The Beer that Made Milwaukee Famous will continue to meet the high standards you yourself have set for the finest beer obtainable.

Schlitz takes this opportunity to thank our millions and millions of friends, our wholesalers and dealers.

There's no doubt about it—if you like beer, you'll love Schlitz—America's largest selling beer.

Probes Diaper Rash Deaths

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The federal food and drug administration is quietly gathering evidence that the so-called "harmless" boric acid contained in baby talc and ointments has actually caused the death of scores of infants in recent years.

"When all the evidence is in," said one FDA official, "we're going to insist manufacturers put some type of warning label on their products."

"In the meantime," he continued, "We're encouraging manufacturers to stop the use of boric acid in any product where a substitute can be found."

For years, borated talc and ointments have been standard items in almost every home medicine chest. Mothers have considered it a routine, safe treatment for minor cuts and rashes—diaper rash in particular.

No one knows how many infants have died as a result of boric-acid poisoning. Generally, such deaths have been attributed to some other cause. According to Dr. James Dukey of New York's Roosevelt Hospital, "infant deaths often attributed to meningitis and pneumonia actually are caused by boric acid in a powder applied by mothers in a mistaken belief that it has soothing therapeutic value."

"The error in diagnosis occurs," says Dr. Dukey, "because autopsies in these cases are rare. Relatively large quantities of pure boric acid are available for absorption from ordinary dusting powders containing boric acid."

Early Warning

What started the food and drug administration's probe of boric acid in baby talc was medical reports such as that by Dr. Russell Fisher, chief medical examiner of Baltimore, who as early as 1951 wrote:

"No attention has been paid to the possibility of absorption of boric acid from powders or other preparations applied to the surface of the body. That there is real danger of poisoning by boric acid absorption through areas of dermatitis (skin infection) has been learned during our study of the unexpected deaths of infants in Baltimore in the past two years."

"The usual history," warned Dr. Fisher, "is that of the development of a 'diaper rash' in an infant under one year of age, and the treatment of the dermatitis by repeated application of boric acid in a starch or talc mixture . . . it is considered highly probable that many cases of fatal boric-acid poisoning occur but go undiagnosed."

Notice To Mothers

Another warning published in the AMA's journal of diseases of children by Doctors Clement Brooke and Thomas Boggs stated: "boric acid and sodium borate are sufficiently poisonous to cause severe symptoms and death when used in amounts commonly considered to be perfectly safe. Boric acid is readily absorbed by a number of different routes and in particularly insidious in that symptoms may be minimal (minor) until a lethal or near-lethal dose has been absorbed."

Despite numerous warnings by medical experts, the food and drug administration finds that some manufacturers of boric-acid products have been hard to convince. As a result, unsuspecting drugstores contain millions of cans of borated talc and boric-acid ointment with no warning labels to alert the unsuspecting housewife or mother.

Note—Due to curtailed funds it will be another year before the food and drug administration can complete its study and force manufacturers to place the necessary warning labels on boric-acid products.

Headlines and Footnotes

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey is burned up over a New York Times story that the administration hopes to balance the budget with a national sales tax. Actually, Humphrey had talked off the record to a group of newsmen, but what the treasury secretary actually said was that a "national sales tax is one of many things being considered." Secretary Humphrey feels that the Times not only violated the off-the-record agreement, but got the story twisted. As a result the New York Times will not be invited to any more of Humphrey's off-the-record conferences . . . along with a national sales tax, the Treasury department is considering a manufacturing excise tax at the production rather than the retail level, and is even studying another boost in income and corporate taxes. No final decision will be made until the Treasury has a complete picture of the government's needs . . . Internal Revenue Bureau has stopped reviewing the tax returns of the big corporations, believe it or not, as an economy move. Hereafter, the word of the agents in the field will be final on whether the corporations have paid their full taxes. Yet millions of dollars have been recovered every year by reviewing tax returns in Washington. This means the big corporations will get off easier in the future, and, if there are any dishonest agents left in the field, they may be tempted to make a deal with certain corporations, knowing that the returns will never be double-checked . . . Senator McCarthy stated bluntly the other day that a man who refuses to testify on the grounds that he might be incriminated, must be guilty. Thus, by McCarthy's own standards, he is guilty of six grave violations of the law, since he refused to appear before a congressional committee and answer questions about his finances.

Federal Aid Does Not Help
Basic 1953 Drought Tragedy

By Bruce Biossat

For a long time it seemed as if the bitter lesson of the old Dust Bowl of the 1930's had been well learned. But the terrible Texas drought of 1953 shattered that notion.

The memory of the black blizzards of the thirties did burn deep with the farmers of the Southwest. They exercised a caution not seen earlier, and had available to them technical advice about farming practices not on hand before Dust Bowl days.

But the caution vanished with World War II, which brought record demand and high prices for crops and meat products. Postwar inflation plus the Korean war did nothing to reverse the trend.

Under these pressures, farmers opened new land previously kept in pasture grass, or stripped off protective plants from other soil, exposing it to the strong western winds.

There are tens of thousands of acres of land in the plains areas that will make a crop if the rainfall is good. But rain in much of the regions is erratic. Drought must be expected, even if it does not come for several years. Farming that does not take that fact into account is a gamble.

The magnet of high prices, plus certain population pressures westward in the plains states, led many men to take that gamble in the last decade.

Now, in the serious devastation of western Texas land in 1953, the first penalty for this risk-taking is being paid. Only in the short run did the gamble pay off. The fields bare of crops and the cattle ranges parched in the withering sun are the grim and inevitable answer to that kind of farming.

The $150 million voted by Congress for relief does not, in the view of conservationists, repair the basic damage. It eases the emergency, no more. Only a long, careful program of soil rehabilitation, coupled with the most advanced conservation practices, can restore to useful output a region that fell under the powerful pressures of abnormal wartime and postwar food markets.

Vitamin B12 Is An Effective
Pernicious Anemia Weapon

By Dr. Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

As a starting point for a discussion of pernicious anemia, some questions submitted by Mrs. G. are helpful. "Is there any cure for this disease?" she asks, "and what dangers are there in having it for 13 years? Can you tell me the cause? Can leukemia develop from it if neglected?"

I should rather speak of treatment than cure because while treatment available now is excellent, it usually has to be continued indefinitely.

The discovery of a substance known as crystalline vitamin B12 is of the highest value in this respect. It is of even more value that the use of liver which has saved so many lives since it was introduced by the Boston physicians, Minot and Murphy, in 1926.

At any rate, when given in the right quantities and fairly early in the disease, vitamin B12, sometimes combined with liver or other substances, is highly effective.

Untreated pernicious anemia or that which has been treated inadequately, can cause dangerous complications in the nervous system or elsewhere. Having the disease 13 years, however, is not necessarily dangerous, if it has been well treated.

It is difficult to explain the cause in simple terms. In essence, it is considered the result of a deficiency which in turn leads to a lessened rate of forming red blood cells in the bone marrow. It is making up this deficiency which is probably the main function of vitamin B12 or of liver.

Can't Become Leukemia
As for whether pernicious anemia can develop into leukemia if neglected, the answer is no. And so far as I know, the occurrence of leukemia in someone who already has pernicious anemia is exceedingly rare, if it ever occurs at all.

There is much more which could be said about this interesting disease. Up until 1926, it was almost always fatal in the course of time, but now this is rare indeed. While much still has to be learned about it—such as how to prevent it, for example—the treatment problem has been largely conquered and this represents a real triumph of combined medical research in the laboratory, in experimental animals, and on patients.

Farmers' Voice Is Heard

Campaigning last year, President Eisenhower told farmers he believed they were tired of having their farms "managed" from Washington. He proposed to free them of many controls.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson sounded the same theme this year, suggesting established farm price supports ought to be "disaster insurance" instead of a year-in-year-out policy.

Recently the wheat farmers, an important segment of the big farm vote, had a chance to express their views on this issue. The question was simple: Whether farmers would accept marketing quotas on the 1954 wheat crop in exchange for continued high government support prices.

Some 87 per cent voted to take the quotas and keep the high supports. It was the most resounding vote of its kind in price support history. The political meaning of it will certainly not be lost on Republican leaders from White House to county court house, as they plan how to keep control of Congress in 1954.

U. S. strategists are now convinced Russia will never untie East Germany from its apron strings. Best intelligence from inside the Kremlin is that the purged secret police chief, Beria, favored an independent Germany as a buffer between the East and West. He was opposed, however, by Premier Malenkov, who would not agree to cut the communist ties to Germany and permit free elections . . . Here's more bad news for farmers: Farm costs, including wages for farm hands and the prices of farm equipment, have climbed another 1 per cent while farm prices have dropped a record 12 per cent.

Right Back Where It Started

The World Today—
Demos Plan for Big Show

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON—If the big-wig Democrats get-together in Chicago Sept. 14 and 15 is as fouled up as the preparations for it, there should be lively, if not harmonious, doings.

Since their election disaster in 1952 the Democrats have been pilgrims in a political desert, looking wistfully toward Washington, which they occupied so long it must seem to them like a family estate overrun by intruders.

The two big goals ahead of them are trying to regain control of Congress in 1954 and both Congress and the presidency in 1956. If all goes well with them in Chicago they may be able to make some plans for the 1954 elections.

Because this is their first national meeting since the Republicans took over in January, the Democrats will have no difficulty in not refraining from criticism of the Eisenhower administration's first eight months.

Preparations have been under way for weeks for this meeting, which will cover a lot more ground than just lambasting the Republicans.

It will be a welcome occasion for Adlai E. Stevenson, the party's 1952 presidential candidate, after his long trip abroad; the Democratic National Committee will meet; and there will be a $100-a-plate dinner to raise money to pay off the National Committee's debts.

Former President Truman, who won't run again, will be there along with those who would like to run or have been mentioned as likely starters in the presidential sweepstakes three years from now.

Stevenson would probably like another try, but hasn't said so, and may find when nomination time comes around in 1956—or perhaps even at this Chicago meeting—that he has a lot of opposition.

ROSE'S Last Summer
by Margaret Millor

Copyright 1952 by Margaret Millor. Used by arrangement with the publishers, Random House, Inc. Distributed by NEA Service.

THE STORY: The body of Rose French, forgotten star of the silent films, was found beside the lily pond at the home owned by Willett Goodfield. Police Captain Greer found no marks of violence. In her purse were six postcards addressed to Frank Clyde, who is a welfare worker at the mental hygiene clinic.

III

THERE were two pictures of Rose in the paper. One Frank had seen before on the wall of Rose's room, taken when Rose was about 40. The second was a scene from an early movie showing Rose virtuously resisting the advances of a sleek young man identified as Dwight Hamman, the second of her five husbands. Rose had mentioned only three of her husbands to Frank; the other two came as a surprise.

He experienced an even greater surprise when he read the account of her death. According to police estimates, Rose had died about noon on Monday.

He phoned Greer immediately, and after dinner he drove down to the white stone building that contained the police offices and the city jail. The grounds of the building were kept immaculate by a volunteer jail crew made up mostly of petty thieves, drunks and non-support cases.

Greer took a pipe out of his pocket and put it in the corner of his mouth. He didn't light it because there was no tobacco in the pipe. He used it as a prop, for chewing on, tapping his desk, scratching the side of his neck, or emphasizing a point he was making. "You mentioned over the phone that you'd seen her recently."

"On Sunday, late in the morning. I went to her boarding house. The landlady, a Mrs. Cushman, had called me and so I went to try and straighten her out."

"And that's all you wanted to tell me."

"Not quite all," Frank said. "At 3 o'clock Monday afternoon Rose called me on the phone and told me she had a job and was leaving town."

"It couldn't have happened," Greer said. "By that time she'd been dead for three hours or more."

"Some mistake's been made," "Perhaps by you."

"Perhaps, but I don't think so. Take a look at this." He brought out the card Rose had sent him and tossed it on the desk. "It's postmarked 6:30 p. m."

GREER tapped the card with his pipe. "Why the picture and no message?"

"One of Rose's little jokes. When she told me she was leaving town to take a job, I asked her to keep in touch with us so we'd know she was all right."

"What kind of job?"

"As a housekeeper. That was her story anyway."

"Didn't you believe it?"

"I did yesterday. Now I don't know. Maybe it wasn't Rose on the phone yesterday afternoon. I'm no specialist on voices, but it certainly sounded like her and things she said were typically Rose. And if it wasn't Rose, who was it?"

"A close friend, a woman who knew her well and knew, too, about her connection with you."

"What would be the point of such a call?"

"I can only guess," Greer said. "Rose was already dead and the woman didn't want it known. Perhaps she intended merely to falsify the time of death, or perhaps Rose wasn't meant to be found at all—it was to be a disappearance."

"But there was no attempt to hide the body. She was found in somebody's back yard where she couldn't possibly be missed."

"I know," Greer said heavily. "It's a funny case. If there was money involved, maybe I could find a reason for all the shenanigans. Rose had $1 in a savings account, checking account overdrawn as of last Saturday, and the only jewelry she hadn't pawned or sold was the wedding ring she was wearing, a plain gold band initialed RF, HD."

"I know the ring. It was from her first marriage, when she was 16."

Captain Greer nodded.

Frank said, "Who did the autopsy?"

"Dr. Severn," Captain Greer said irritably. "The woman died of a heart attack yesterday around noon. The heart was badly damaged and half again normal size."

"No question of murder then?"

There wouldn't be if she'd been found dead in bed. As things are—? he spread his hands. "It would be easy enough to kill someone with a bad heart condition—a shock, a soft pillow over the face—there are lots of ways it could have been done."

"As far as I'm aware, Rose had no intimates during recent years, friends, or enemies."

"And before that?"

"She must have had hundreds of both. She was aggressive. It was easy for Rose to make friends, and just as easy to drop them. Lately she'd make a fetish of independence. I think probably Miriam and I were the closest thing to a friend she had in this town, except perhaps her landlady, Blanche Cushman."

"How much did she confide in you?"

"Just what she wanted to. I had no idea, for instance, that she had a heart condition. She never mentioned her health, her age or her family. She talked freely about three of her five husbands, but I didn't even know about the other two until I read tonight's paper."

"There were five, all right. I had one of the boys check with the publicity department of her old studio. She divorced three of them, one was killed in a sailing accident and one of them committed suicide."

Odds and Ends

The three little children of Catholic faith came to Sedalia with their mother to attend the funeral of their great aunt. The mother whispered to her children to go to the little kneeling bench beside the casket at the funeral chapel and say a little prayer. The three little youngsters did as they were told and when they returned to their mother she asked them what their prayers were. The two little girls repeated what they said and then the boy, the baby of the group, looked up innocently and repeated his little prayer—the one he had been taught to say at the table—the only one he knew.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Leo R. Vernon, Lebanon, Neb., deputy regional Boy Scout executive, who had been in Sedalia going over Scout work here with the new executive, Richard Griffith, left for his home.

Jerome R. Needy, one of the star athletes of Smith-Cotton High School won the 60-yard free style race at the Citizens' Military Training Camp at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., receiving a cup donated by a motor company.

Miss Alberta Chase, executive secretary of the Missouri Society for Crippled Children, spoke before the Kiwanis Club at its regular luncheon. Another speaker was the Rev. James Parsons, a former Sedalia minister.

C. W. Higdon, Richmond, in charge of police at the Missouri State Fair grounds during the fair, stated the fair visitors seemed to be very orderly. Only two arrests were made on the grounds, one being at the request of the sheriff of Lincoln County and the other a man placed in jail for investigation.

FORTY YEARS AGO
The Missouri Pacific had a heavy shipment of livestock for the St. Louis Market, including a special train from Huguesville of 16 cars of cattle. The shippers were: C. W. McAninch, four cars; Walter McClure, 11 cars, and F. W. McClure, one car.

Sixteen fine race horses that had been stabled at the Missouri State Fair grounds were shipped by Wells-Fargo Express to Toronto, Canada, to be sold to lovers of fast steppers across the border.

E. E. Ferguson, farmer residing on route 1, was having erected an elegant eight-room house, strictly modern, at his farm six miles northeast of the city.

J. H. Farley and brother, Daniel Farley purchased a 160-acre farm 2 1/2 miles west of La Monte, from A. S. Willis.

She Puts a Spell on Spring Flowers

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK — The flowers that bloom in the spring may last all the way into fall. That's if you let Alma Doody get her hands on them.

Every morning Mrs. Doody staggers up two long dark flights of stairs her arms full of flowers. She goes into an unimpressive office and ducks behind a partition. There she works some horticultural mumbo-jumbo and treats them so they last forever.

Well maybe forever. It's still too early to tell. Some of the samples are now three going on four and they still look the same. So Mrs. Doody isn't sure just how long her process is good for.

These well-preserved blossoms of hers look good despite their advanced age. They've retained their form and their color. When you get a big bunch together there's even the faintest wisp of fragrance left too but that may be imagination. Mrs. Doody makes no claim for smell retention.

Her method is strictly secret. Even Hallock Harmon who handles the business end of the firm doesn't know how she does it. He admits that he could make a good guess but he isn't sure. And he won't even tell his guess.

Whatever it is it does the trick. Her office is full of permanent posies. There are bunches of delphiniums roses narcissi and even ferns. She calls her creations "Spellbound Flowers" and nowadays is specializing in arrangements in picture frames.

Her present occupation stems from nostalgia which is a perennial vine that grows in the heart. In Mrs. Doody's case she was nostalgic for the flowers grass and such she used to know back in Ohio. When she moved to a New York apartment she had no pretty botanical specimens to admire.

This situation prompted her to recall her great-grandmother an inventive lady who had concocted a method of retaining color in pressed flowers. After three years and beaucoup bouquets Mrs. Doody adapted great-grandma's method to its present state of petal perfection.

Actually she admits it isn't perfect. There are still some flowers that resist. A few white flowers like gardenias turn brown at the edges. And some very large flowers don't come out too well. But 85 per cent of garden and wild flowers can be treated.

Since the finished product is slightly fragile she doesn't sell loose flowers or corsages. Everything is made up in an arrangement. The flowers must be absolutely fresh for the treatment to take. And they must be worked on as soon as possible after they've been picked or it's no go. Columbines Mrs. Doody says are especially fussy and must be treated within a few hours after they've been harvested.

Mrs. Doody has worked on all flowers. Once she treated some forget-me-nots but it was so long ago that she's forgotten.

They might do by eliminating their own temporary employees.

"What we want is an executive order giving career workers preference on jobs for which they are suited," she added.

Civil service officials said the established procedure provides for this now, but it is not required by law. They added the cutback program is too new to determine how all career workers will be treated.

Career Workers Plan a Fight For U. S. Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Several hundred career government workers plan a fight for job rights they say have been taken from them in a drive to cut down the federal payroll.

Some 300 of them have formed a new organization in an attempt to get President Eisenhower to guarantee them jobs somewhere in the government when curtailments eliminate the positions they have been holding.

By next June, government officials estimate, a total of 180,000 positions will be eliminated to cut expenses.

The majority are supposed to come from the ranks of temporary employees, but an unknown number of career workers already have been let out by blanket reductions.

"They are mostly little people," says Mrs. Katherine Crowley, secretary of the new "Federal Civil Service Separated Career Employees Assn." She said she lost her job as a government attorney last July after 22 years' service.

These people lose civil service protection when their positions are eliminated. Mrs. Crowley said other departments so far have refused to make room for career workers, as they might do by eliminating their own temporary employees.

"What we want is an executive order giving career workers preference on jobs for which they are suited," she added.

Civil service officials said the established procedure provides for this now, but it is not required by law. They added the cutback program is too new to determine how all career workers will be treated.

Hatters Turn Green

LONDON, 2 — Hatters in Great Britain are so desperate they have been manufacturing green bowlers. Colors are one answer to the trend away from the use of hats by men. The hat men claim they are selling lots of the highly colored hats. Colors also are found in caps for wear at the beach and on the golf course.

But even these sales have not checked the trend away from the use of hats, they admit sadly. A SPECIAL!

I have a beautiful rock-veneer home for sale that is practically new, in southwest location, on corner lot. Has attached garage and plenty of storage. Please make an inspection of this home a "must" if you are in the buying market. Owner has sold his business and is leaving immediately. Terms are the best with approximately $1,500 cash down, balance monthly. Full price reduced to only $9,250.00.

OTHER GODD VALUES!

We have a wonderful suburban home with all the conveniences of town. Owner has purchased a farm and wants immediate action. Inspect this today. Terms. Reduced to $11,700.

New 2 bedroom home located in Southwest Sedalia, not far from town. Built to F.H.A. standards. Owner wants action. Home vacant now. Good terms. $7,450.

Let us show you a beautiful ranch type home. Located on a choice corner lot of the exclusive Country Club Addition. This home is built for spacious and refined living. Its outstanding features include: 3 large bedrooms, tile bath, built-in dressing table, knotty pine play room and many other "extras." Having been built to F.H.A. standards, this house is a "must" on your inspection list, if you are in the buying market.

3 bedroom home, basement, double garage, owner wants immediate sale of this property. I think this property is below market at $9,500. Good terms can be arranged.

Trouble Can Bring Out Best In Men

NEW YORK (P)—Nothing brings out the best in men like trouble. That is what is wrong with mankind—these curious, upright creatures who so often find a horizontal death while seeking peace by fighting wars.

When times are worst, they are at their best. It's been like that since gentlemen first adjusted their differences with stone hammers against each others skulls. And now entire civilizations are able to destroy each other at a blow, as individual did to individual long ago. How progress does improve the breed!

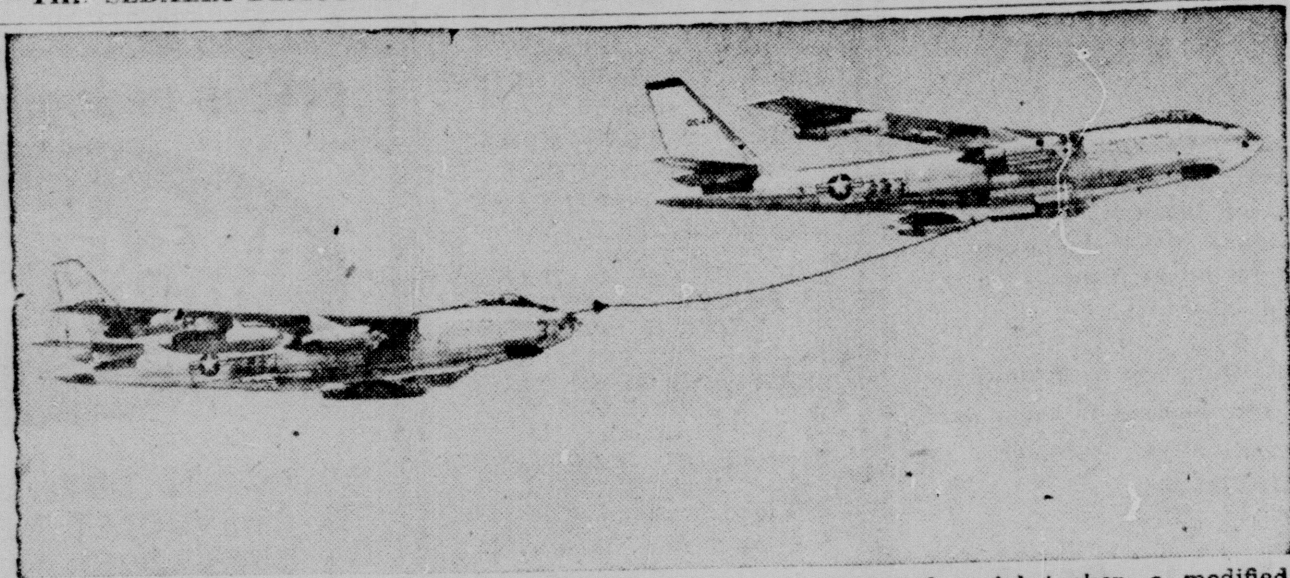

As one of the world's eldest teenagers, I am accustomed to the fact that life sometimes deals the bottom card you don't want from the top of the deck.

It doesn't fit in your hand. Worse, it doesn't fit in your dreams. But you have to play it or get out of the game. To me, and I don't criticize those who have a different idea or even choose a midnight exit, it has always been more fun to stay in the game and trade a disappointment for a new card.

But why do we as a specie of life have to stack the deck against ourselves so often?

We never get more joy than we

14 THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT—Sedalia, Mo., Wed., Sept. 2, 1953

AERIAL LIFELINE FOR BOMBERS—The world's first jet-powered aerial tanker, a modified KB-47 B Stratojet, right, refuels another B-47 during a test run at Seattle, Wash. The receiver plane is modified with a long, streamlined refueling "probe" jutting from its nose. The tanker trails a long hose to which is attached a "drouge" or large funnel. The "receiver" plane flies below and aft of the hose so that its spear-like "probe" engages the coupling in the "drouge." Once in contact, fuel is transferred from the tanker to the bomber.

do from one another, and one destroyed in anger is one less to share a pleasure with. When Cain killed Abel he not only lost a brother. He set a precedent that diminished a small world, a world no larger yet for all the growth and passions of the centuries.

All the money and all the land on earth cannot give you the fun that people give you. Can a bought acre make you laugh? Can a $100 bill? At 42 I would mortgage myself to a bank for many years if by that way I could rent back for even a moment the companionship alive again of a few flaw-vanished spirit - remembered friends who died, for one reason or other, in this deadly business of living.

Who has known loss, and doesn't feel that way?

Well, yearning may carpenter many an impossible dream—What castles it does build in our minds!—but in the winter of our heart it does not change the weather we endure or that predicted by the U. S. Weather Bureau, even by a long range forecast.

But as toil exercises the muscles of our bodies so does trouble stretch our minds. We grow by loss as well as by gain. Sometimes we become higher as life erodes the altitude of our ego away.

So many people can look at the human race—priests, philosophers, businessmen and scientists, social or otherwise—and come up with a ready answer. And the world still reels through wrong toward what, we hope, is right. But the only pattern humankind has achieved is that of father and mother and child—the trinity of existence that rules both mouse and man. And wolves.

Here we are on the pale fragment of a fading star, wondering where we are going instead of tilling the garden we have, warmed by the sun that shines upon us and faith - to the sun within us.

What a thing man is — depth without height, height without depth! One foot in the hell he makes for himself, and does little to change, and the other foot unhappy except on Mt. Everest. A fall and a failure, a reach without reason.

You give a fellow a fair place of peace and he'll go to war to get more, be he lover, businessman or warrior, male or female. He has always been willing to gamble the safety of the Garden of Eden to try to grab a rocky pasture outside, or buy an apple just to see what kind of worm is in it.

Master speculator, universal dunce, laughter of animals, pitiful prisoner of himself, time, space, and that fourth dimension—God—what a restless thing man is! He can change everything on earth except himself, make rivers run backward, tear down mountains with a molehill mind. But he cannot call back one of his kind who is gone.

In an age of insects with six legs and wings, he has no wings

Youth's Heroes Are Young
NEW YORK (P) — The youngsters of America have young heroes, a survey of 10,000 boys and girls of 8 through 18 shows. Elizabeth Taylor, Eddie Fisher, Vic Damone, Jerry Lewis and Micky Mantle came out as favorites. Long established singers like Bing Crosby and Frank Sinatra trailed, as did baseball stars in their 30s like Stan Musial, Ralph Kiner and Ted Williams.

Young Robin Roberts and Eddie Matthews also did well in the survey conducted by the Youth Research Institute, private organization. Maureen Connelly, 18, tennis star was the most popular woman athlete. Sen. John Kennedy, 33, showed up well in competition with the better known Eisenhower, Truman, Taft and Stevenson.

On the other hand, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt in the older group came out as the most popular woman in the country over youngster competition. But in the glamor department Marilyn Monroe was favored over older Zsa Zsa Gabor and Jane Russell with Grandma Marlene Dietrich far down the list.

to fly and only two legs. He is less numerous than the insects, either in the tropics or near the North of South Pole.

Man mouths a cry for eternal peace and is never more industrious than he is while destroying his own kind, then weeps for what he has lost, and those he has lost. Well, you play the game — and call for the next cards. Man asks for everlasting sugar and makes his own present vinegar.

Some one of these days the insects may get together and spray the human race with DDT. Certainly it is their moral turn.
